Roc.No.268 K4/49 dated 12-5-49

Sir,

Sub:--Inspection--Office of the Inspector of Oriental Schools, Madras--Lower Division Clerk,further continuance--requesting

Ref:--G.O.Ms.No.837 Edn. dated 24-3-49

In my letter Roc.No.268 K4/49 dated 7-3-49 I recommended to Government the continuance of the temporary clerk in the Office of the Inspector of Oriental Schools, Madras for a further period of one year with effect from 1-4-49. The Government however, in their order cited above, sanctioned the continuance of the post for a period of 2 months only from 1-4-49. The sanction will therefore expire on 31-5-49.

The Inspector of Oriental Schools represents to me that it is very hard to cope with the heavy work in the Office without the temporary clerk. I am convinced of the need of this post. I therefore request that the Government may be pleased to sanction the continuance of the temporary clerk up to 31-3-50 as already recommended in my letter referred to above. The statistics of the number of papers received and disposed of during the year 1943-44 to 1947-48 and from 1-4-48 to 31-1-49 furnished in my letter Roc.No.268 K4/49 dated 7-3-49 show that it is not possible to effect any retrenchment in the existing staff of the Office.

Yours faithfully,

For Director of Public Instruction

One of the most interesting things I have seen in the world is the way in which the people of the East have managed to live in such a small space. They have built their houses on the roofs of other houses, and they have built their houses on the walls of other houses. They have built their houses on the tops of other houses, and they have built their houses on the sides of other houses. They have built their houses on the corners of other houses, and they have built their houses on the edges of other houses. They have built their houses on the floors of other houses, and they have built their houses on the ceilings of other houses. They have built their houses on the stairs of other houses, and they have built their houses on the balconies of other houses. They have built their houses on the porches of other houses, and they have built their houses on the terraces of other houses. They have built their houses on the lawns of other houses, and they have built their houses on the gardens of other houses. They have built their houses on the streets of other houses, and they have built their houses on the squares of other houses. They have built their houses on the parks of other houses, and they have built their houses on the fields of other houses. They have built their houses on the mountains of other houses, and they have built their houses on the hills of other houses. They have built their houses on the valleys of other houses, and they have built their houses on the plains of other houses. They have built their houses on the rivers of other houses, and they have built their houses on the lakes of other houses. They have built their houses on the seas of other houses, and they have built their houses on the oceans of other houses. They have built their houses on the continents of other houses, and they have built their houses on the islands of other houses. They have built their houses on the world of other houses, and they have built their houses on the universe of other houses.
