Ref: G.O.No.2288 Edn., dated 15-7-1949.

In para 2 of G.O.No.2288 Edn., dated 15-7-1949 Government accepted the Director's recommendation that the existing Manual Training Instructors should be continued where provision is made for wood work or weaving and allowed the scales of pay admissible to them until teachers trained in the Basic Training schools become available. Memo, 70703.150-2 Edu d. 25.2.50.

The D.P.D. is requested to report whether the proposal to continue in service to existing qualified Manual Training Instructors as craft instructors where there is provision for woodwork or weaving will in any way affect the prospects of teachers trained in basic training schools in these crafts, i.e. whether they will remain unemployed in the craft for which they were being trained and also whether training in these crafts should be continued until the existing trained men are absorbed. The Director is requested to ~~for~~ give some idea of the number of teachers who are likely to be trained in basic training schools every year and whether they could be absorbed in the secondary schools that are newly opened every year and also in vacancies that arise in the existing secondary schools due to retirement or death of the existing qualified Manual Training Instructors ^{or other causes} and discharge of unqualified Manual Training Instructors as & when trained men become available

In connection with the fixation of the scales of pay for craft Instructors who are general subject teachers trained in crafts, the D.P.I. recommended that the existing Manual Training Instructors might be continued in secondary schools where provision is made for woodwork or weaving and allowed the scale of pay of Rs 50-2-90 admissible to them until teachers trained in the basic training schools become available as it is not desirable to have two sets of specialist teachers with different scales of pay during the transitional period. The Director now recommends that the existing qualified Manual Training Instructors may be allowed to continue in service and that they may be treated as craft Instructors instead of being replaced by teachers trained in basic training schools as and when they become available. It is proposed to accept the D.P.I.'s recommendation. The Finance Department while accepting the draft order on page 1 ante have remarked that the argument now advanced by the D.P.I. is not new and such a situation could have been foreseen even at the time of the original recommendation. True, but it does not affect the question at issue. The number of craft Instructors trained in Basic Training schools who can teach weaving or wood work ^{in addition to general subjects} many not many for some years to come and these teachers could easily be absorbed in the secondary schools that are newly opened every year and also in the vacancies that arise in the existing secondary schools due to the retirement or death of the existing Manual Training Instructors. The Director's recommendation that the qualified Manual Training Instructors ^{in wood work or weaving} need not be discharged as and when the newly trained craft Instructors become available is reasonable and may be accepted.
