Lecturer in Nutrition in the M.E.S. - Ad hoc rules.

An M.E.S. post of Lecturer in Nutrition was sanctioned in the Q.M.C. from the beginning of the current academic year. Smt. L. Rangacharlu, Asst. Lecturer, who had just then returned from the U.S.A. having taken the M.Sc. (Home Science) degree of the Columbia University was appointed ~~temporarily~~ ^{from 20.7.49} to the post temporarily pending the prescription of the qualifications therefor. The D.P.I., in consultation with the Madras Unty., has now suggested that the degrees mentioned at M ~~in~~ at C.F.2 be laid down as the qualifns. for the post. A draft order (ad hoc rules) is subd. Legal may see for scrutiny before the M.P.S.C.'s views on the draft are invited.

The Commission says that specific mention that the post of Lecturer in Nutrition shall constitute a tempy. addn. to category 2 of class VII of M.E.S., may be made in the rules. Such a provn. as this would, it seems, unnecessary as rule 1 lays down that the General & Special Rules applicable to permanent posts in this category refd. to by the Commission shall apply to the tempy. post. It is recollected that a suggestion similar to the one now made by the Madras Public Service Commission at p.8 c.f. was made by that body in connexion with some other ad hoc Service Rules relating to the Education Department and that ^{that} suggestion was accepted.

The point whether the decision in that connexion may not apply to this case also seems to arise for consideration.

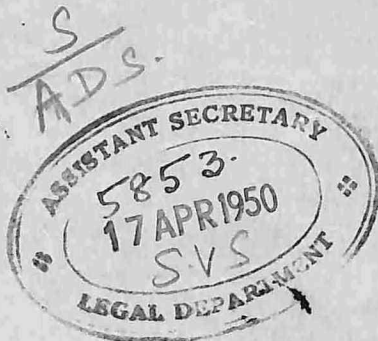

Education may kindly consider in the light of those papers whether the suggestion now made by the M.P.S.C. may be accepted or not and also consult the Public (Services) Department in the first instance.

No papers in which a similar suggestion from the Commission was considered before, are traceable in this dept. Pub. (Services) may kindly see for remarks.

The note of Education and Legal on pp.1-2 ante. may be perused. Submitted that the General and Special Rules applicable to a particular category in a service are sometimes made to apply also to temporary posts constituting distinct categories in the same service. Therefore the application to a temporary post of the General and Special Rules which apply to a particular category in the service is not necessarily an indication that the temporary post belongs to that category. In view of this position, this department may support the Commission's suggestion.

The file may be returned to Education.
