The ecclesiastical forms mentioned in your above letter are required to be stocked and supplied by the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras with reference to the rules framed under the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872 (Notification of the Government of Madras No. 130 Ecclesiastical, dated 30-6-1934). In view of this the forms cannot be taken over by me and supplied to the functionaries. Even in the absence of any specific instructions requiring you to supply the forms, they cannot be taken over by me owing to lack of space in my office to keep the forms.

It is stated in your above letter that excepting 5 items of forms noted therein, there is no demand for the other forms mentioned. I may state there is demand for some of the other forms as well viz., I.C.M. Act 3, 3A, I.C.M. Act 4, I.C.M. Act 5, I.C.M. Act 7 and 7.A, and functionaries have written to me complaining that the above forms indent- ed for by them have not been supplied, although payment was made for them and this office had also reminded you many times in the matter.

There appears to be no demand since a long time for the forms in vernacular viz. Notice of marriage, I.C.M. Act 1, and certificate of receipt of notice I.C.M. Act 2 the reason being that the majority of the functionaries do not require these forms, and hence the question of discontinuing them altogether may be considered.

A complete list of Ecclesiastical forms and Registers available in stock with the number of copies in each is furnished. The items indicated as "old" though printed on white paper have become yellowish due to lapse of time, and are very brittle. As such their further retention in this Depot is not desirable. Moreover they are having no sales. In the circumstances, please let me know whether Government in the Home Department may be addressed for disposing such forms and registers as waste paper.

There are over 500 copies of the Marriage Registrar's Manual printed in 1916 and priced Re. 0-8-0 per copy lying idle. As there is no demand for copies, I request you to suggest a better disposal for these copies.

A very early reply is requested.

As suggested by you the Government may be addressed for disposal of the old and useless forms and registers.

As regards copies of the Marriage Registrar's Manual, 50 copies may be sent to me for distribution to Marriage Registrars. The remaining copies, it is suggested, may be distributed free to licensees under the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872 on payment of the postal transmission charges. Please state whether you agree to this if so the amount of postage required for each copy.
