Subject: United Nations Advisory Social Welfare Services.

Sir,

The United Nations Organisation, has with a view to helping the Member States in their respective reconstructional programmes in the field of Social Welfare work, been providing for Advisory Social Welfare Services in their budget for the last few years. The services which are made available by the United Nations Organisation to the requesting Member States on the terms and conditions specified for each category consist of provision of:-

a. experts;
b. fellowship;
c. pilot projects and, training material;
and,
d. seminar

connected with the various branches of Social Welfare work.

The United Nations Organisation have invited the Government of India to avail of these Advisory Social Welfare Services and have, for the purpose, asked us to intimate to them our requirements during 1950 and 1951 in respect of the various branches of social welfare work.

So far as Fellowships are concerned, India has been participating in this item of U.N. Social Welfare Programme for the last two years and the Government of India have intimated to the U.N. the probable requirements of the country during the next two years.

In order to present to U.N.O. a consolidated demand of the requirements of the country as a whole, it is considered desirable to ascertain the requirements of the various Provincial and State Governments and Universities, in respect of the other three categories of services, namely, experts, pilot projects and training material and seminars in the various branches of Social Welfare Work. I am, accordingly, directed to forward herewith a statement of Policies and Procedures pertaining to the United Nations Advisory Social Welfare Services and to request that after a careful study of the document and after thorough examination of the terms and conditions attaching to each category of the services, particularly the financial implications the Provincial/State Government/University may please intimate to this Ministry its requirements in 1950 and 1951 in respect of

b. pilot projects and training material,
and
c. Seminars

in the various fields of Social Welfare work enumerated in the enclosed document and in which the Provincial/ State Government/ University may be interested. It is very important that while assessing your requirements due regard should be paid to the Social Welfare programmes actually in hand of the Provincial/ State Government/ University, so that the services asked for can be of direct and immediate use in your programmes.

As the United Nations have asked for this information at a very early date, it is requested that your reply may kindly be sent to this Ministry by the end of January 1950, at the latest.

Yours faithfully,

N. S. Junankar

(N. S. Junankar)
for Deputy Secretary.

Copy, with 30 spare copies to the Ministry of States, with the request that copies may kindly be transmitted to the various State State Governments for necessary action so far as they are concerned.

Copy to the Ministry of External Affairs for information with reference to their office memorandum No. D.6527-UNI/49 dated 12th November, 1949.

By order,

N. S. Junankar
for Deputy Secretary.

UNITED NATIONS.

ADVISORY SOCIAL WELFARE SERVICES.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY RESOLUTION NO. 58(I)

14th December, 1946.

Statement of Policies and Procedures.

Division of Social Activities,
Department of Social Affairs.

United Nations.
Lake Sucess, N.Y

September 1949.

A. GENERAL STATEMENT ON SERVICES PROVIDED. V

1. The following advisory social welfare services are available under General Assembly Resolution 58(I) 1/ to Governments requesting and needing them, and are described in detail in subsequent paragraphs:

a. experts;
b. fellowships;
c. pilot projects and training material;
d. seminars.

2. In order to ensure that the services furnished by the United Nations shall be of the greatest possible value to the requesting government, it is recommended that a systematic survey be made of existing welfare needs, and an integrated plan be drawn up outlining a programme for several years and indicating the specific fields in which the services available under Resolution 58(I) are needed; the portions of such a programme which apply to 1950 might be submitted in their entirety to the United Nations as a request for services during that year. The relative need for the various kinds of services is decided upon by consultation and agreement between the requesting government and the Secretariat, after discussion with the Permanent Delegation or with any person especially indicated by the Government. A government which desires advice in planning a long-term or integrated social welfare programme may request the co-operation of the Secretariat; it might for example, request the United Nations to send an exploratory mission to assist in a general survey as a first step, to be followed by a possible request to the United Nations for more specialized services such as experts, fellowships and other services.

3. Requests for services should be addressed to the Secretary-General and should be submitted as early as possible, in order to permit adequate consideration and the making of necessary arrangements well in advance of the date at which it is desired that the services should begin.

4. The services rendered under General Assembly Resolution 58(I) constitute one of several forms in which technical assistance is furnished by the United Nations and its specialised agencies. Coordination with similar programmes of other Departments and other agencies should be considered by the requesting government, which should indicate the relationship between its request under Resolution 58(I) and any request that it has made under other similar programmes.

5. Each government is expected to participate financially in the cost of the various services provided to it by the United Nations. Each request should include a statement of the extent to which the government will so participate, and of the extent to which it desires the United Nations to assume financial responsibility. Those governments which wish to do so may bear the entire cost of the services furnished by the United Nations.

6. Branches of social welfare activity in which advisory services will be available from the Division of Social Activities in 1950 include;

a. Legislation and Policy for Social Welfare

(1) Research as an aid in policy formulation:

(a) Social Statistics;
(b) Social Surveys;

p10 mf. 1/ For the text of the Resolution, see Appendix A attached.

2/ Governments desiring services in 1951 are invited to submit requests for such services by 15 November 1949. Requests for services in 1950 should, in any case, be submitted not later than 15th November 1949.

(c) Organisation and methodology of field inquiries into living conditions in less developed areas;

R (d) Survey techniques for housing programmes and country planning.

(ii) Social Planning

(iii) The family

(a) Legal: Maintenance obligations; parental rights and responsibilities; guardianship; foster care; etc.,

(vi) Provision for groups requiring special attention;

- (a) Child Welfare;
- (b) Youth, mothers, aged etc;
- (c) Handicapped persons; blind, deaf, crippled etc.
- (d) Migrants, aliens, refugees, etc.

(vii) Social defence:

N (a) Juvenile delinquency: preventive measures; social investigations and medical and psychiatric examination of juvenile delinquents before the final disposition of the case and as a guide for treatment; child guidance clinics; observations centres; juvenile courts or councils; probation; treatment in institutions; after-care; etc.,

C (b) Prevention of crime and treatment of adult offenders; detention of offenders prior to sentence; medical, psychiatric and social examinations of offenders before the final disposition of the case and as a guide for treatment; probation; parole; penitentiary systems - individualization of penitentiary treatment; after-care, etc.,

F (c) Prostitution: Prevention and suppression of the traffic in persons; prevention and suppression of the exploitation of prostitution; social measures against prostitution; etc.

J (d) Police: Police activities positively directed at the prevention of crime by such methods as recreational, educational and social service programmes.

b. Organisation and Operation of services for Social Welfare.

(i) Specialised services;

- (a) Counselling and guidance;
- (b) Legal aid;
- (c) Inspection services:
- (d) Public assitance;

(c) In service training.

(iii) Housing and Town and Country Planning:

(a) Administration of housing programmes, and of town and country planning;

(b) Financing and administration of low cost housing, including co-operative housing, rent control, etc.

(c) Public services;

(d) Housing for special regions and groups;

(e) Building plans, techniques and materials. 1/

1/It is not possible to give an exhaustive list of branches of social welfare activities in which advisory services are available. Many of the newer techniques (e.g. psychiatric social work) are in areas where established disciplines meet. In all such cases of uncertainty, governments should not hesitate to enquire about possibilities. Whenever any of these activities- including those not listed here in detail - touch upon the fields of competence of the specialised agencies, the United Nations clears with the specialised agencies concerned.

B. DETAILED STATEMENT ON SERVICES PROVIDED.

a. Furnishing of Experts to Governments 1/

7. Under this phase of the programme, the Secretary-General provides experts in the above fields of social activity to advise governments, in accordance with their requests, with respect to programme planning, policy making, demonstration projects, or the execution of specific projects.

8. The experts furnished to governments are highly qualified technicians, selected from a roster compiled by the United Nations Secretariat on an international basis. An expert is assigned only after the requesting government has approved the appointment of the person proposed by the Secretariat. He remains in the country for a specified period, subject to modification as agreed upon.

9. Requests for services of experts are received and action is taken thereon by the Secretariat on the basis of:

(i) the amount of funds available for the purpose;

(ii) the nature, purpose and scope of the request;

(iii) availability of competent personnel to render the service requested and to meet the government's preference as to experience and language;

(iv) arrangements for the expert to work in co-operation with a specified agency or official of the recipient government;

(v) access for the expert to all sources of information necessary for the fulfillment of his mission;

(vi) the extent to which similar services has been furnished to the total request of the government concerned for advisory social welfare services and other forms of technical assistance.

10. Experts furnished to governments are deemed, during their terms of duty, to be employed by the United Nations, which accordingly assumes financial responsibility for:

(i) administration and supervision of the programme of expert services;

(ii) payment of experts' salaries; and

(iii) Payment of experts' travel to and from the recipient country, to the extent to which it cannot be paid by that country in local currency.

11. In accordance with the desires of the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council, requesting governments are expected to meet those expenses that can be met in local currency Such financial participation includes:

(i) provision of office accommodation and facilities, secretarial and clerical assistance, and, where necessary, interpreters;

(ii) payment of experts' travel within the recipient country in connection with their assignments;

(iii) payment of experts' per diem or subsistence allowances;

(iv) payment of experts' travel to and from the recipient country, to the extent to which it can be paid by that country in local currency; and

(v) provision of medical care for experts within the recipient country.

b. Provision of Pilot Projects and training Materials 1/

20. The Secretary-General is authorised to provide advice, demonstration and instruction in connection with the introduction of new technical methods in any branch of social welfare activities, such as the rehabilitation of handicapped persons, the establishment of training institutions for social welfare personnel, the prevention of juvenile delinquency, the introduction of town and country planning, et. Requests for pilot projects under this phase of the programme should be worked out in consultation with the Secretariat. All parties co-operating in such pilot projects are expected to participate in the financial responsibility. The Secretariat is prepared to consider requests for furnishing part of the demonstration equipment, tools, material and supplies that may be needed in certain types of pilot projects.

21. The Secretariat also considers requests for two other kinds of material useful as effective means of training personnel in the various branches of social welfare activity:

(i) technical social welfare publications, including books pamphlets and periodicals (available only to Member countries devastated during the war; and

(ii) technical social welfare films as available.

d. Organisation of Regional Seminars.

22. The purpose of a regional seminar is to provide an opportunity to qualified technicians or specialists within that region, responsible for making policy, planning programmes and directing operations in various fields of social activities, to discuss with experts from different countreis the most recent technical development in specified fields. Fields must be chosen from those indicated above. The regional needs for seminars on specific topics should be discussed in a preparatory way with the Secretariat.

23. Seminars generally last for a period of three or four weeks Countries desiring to act as hosts to such a seminar should present their requests to the Secretariat. Such requests should be made well in advance, as approximately one year is needed for the organisation of regional seminars.

24. Countries within a region where a seminar is to be held are invited to participate. Countries that agree to participate then designate as representatives persons who have responsibility in framing policy, directing operations or training personnel in the fields of social activities in their respective countries. A programme Committee, composed of the representatives of the participating countries, co-operates with the Secretariat in planning the programme of such a seminar.

25. In order to limit dollar expenditures, the financing of a seminar is shared as follows:-

(i) the United Nations assumes responsibility for salaries, per diem allowances and transportation of the seminar faculty and administrative costs of the organisation of the seminar;

(ii) the participating countries assume responsiblity for transportation, salaries, if any, and per diem allowances for their national representatives; and

(iii) the host country provides facilities for holding the seminar; conference and office space, interpreters as found necessary, local transportation, secretarial staff, etc.

APPENDIX A.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY RESOLUTION NO.58(I)

Docuemtn A/64/ Add.1

TRANSFER TO THE UNITED NATIONS OF THE ADVISORY SOCIAL WELFARE FUNCTIONS OF UNRRA (UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND REHABILITATION ADMINISTRATION)

WHEREAS Article 66 of the Charter of United Nations provides:

1. The Economic and Social Council shall perform such functions as fall within its competence in connection with the carrying out of the recommendations of the General Assembly.

2. It may with the approval of the General Assembly, perform services at the request of Members of the United Nations and at the request of specialised agencies.

3. It shall perform such other functions as are specified elsewhere in the present Charter or as may be assigned to it by the General Assembly:

WHEREAS the Economic and Social Council, on 1 October 1940 recommended the transfer to the United Nations of certain urgent and important advisory functions in the field of social welfare carried on by UNRRA, special consideration being given to the needs of children;

WHEREAS the General Assembly, after examining the report and the recommendations presented by the Secretary-General in document A/132, recognizes the necessity of transferring to the United Nations the urgent and important advisory functions in the field of social welfare carried on by UNRRA:

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, THEREFORE,

A. AUTHORIZES the Secretary General:

1. In consultation with the Economic and Social Council, to make provision, with the cooperation of the Specialized agencies where appropriate, for the continuance of the urgent and important advisory function in the field of social welfare carried on by UNRRA: and, for this purpose,

2. to include in the budget of the United Nations for 1947 the funds necessary for the assumption of the following functions, all of which are necessary for the accomplishment of an effective programme:

(a) For a requisite number of social welfare experts to provide, on the request of Governments which show the need for them, such advisory services, and to put into practice over an appropriate period, new technical methods in any branch of social welfare;

The Certified Schools Department of the Government of Madras would like to have an expert in child delinquency to come over and train the members of its staff. As other Provinces and States and Universities may also like to have this work done for them and as this Province has done more work in this line, the expert may be requested to work in Madras and train individuals deputed by the other Provinces, States and Universities. The U.N.O. expert can be used by this country only for training our staff and not for direct work in touch with the masses because of language difficulties.

This Department has no Pilot Project ready for a U.N.O expert to take it up. As a matter of fact this country is not socially organised enough even to take advantage of such offers of help.

This Department has no proposal for a Seminar on child delinquency.

What this Department would like to get from the U.N.O is a few fellowships, as it had not even one till now.

I have the honour to state that in planning a long term policy regarding Social Welfare Services in this Province, we might ask for a small mission of experts for exploratory work in 1951 or 1952 to study conditions and advise us. We may need the services of the following classes of experts:-

1. Social Service expert
2. Visual Education Expert
3. Adult (Social) Education expert
4. Child Welfare expert
5. Physical Welfare expert
6. Expert in the field of Physically handicapped children.

2. It would be entirely worthwhile to avail of such services from experts in their own field of work at comparatively little cost to be borne by us. In any case we might communicate to the Secretariat of the United Nations our keen interest in the fields of work indicated above and express our willingness to co-operate with them wholeheartedly in all measures for the improvement of conditions.

3. The holding of a Seminar on Social Service to plan programmes and policies in specified fields of Social work will bring the latest technical advice to our door and we should say we will be glad to sponsor a Seminar on Social Service.

4. So far as the education of physically handicapped children is concerned, the Services of the experts when they are available will be utilized to re-organize and enlarge the field of work that is already carried on in more than half a dozen centres in this Presidency.

The Labour Department is concerned with item 33 "Labour Welfare and Social Insurance" and may need the services of One Overseas Scholar with the knowledge in problems connected with Labour Welfare and Social Insurance especially when the provisions of the Employees' State Insurance Act are extended to this Province. As it is likely that the Overseas Scholar may not accept the present scale of pay of the Labour Officers i.e., Rs.200-300/-, I suggest that he may be placed on a Senior Administrative Officer's scale in order to attract the best talents.

In this connection, I wish to bring to the notice of the Government that while other Provinces are taking advantage of the schemes, our Province has not been sending Officers for such Overseas training. The result would be that trained Officers belonging to other Provinces who may not be quite conversant with the conditions of labour in this Province would be thrust on us. It would therefore be desirable to have our own Officers trained. I request that the Government may be pleased to consider this aspect.

[Memo No. 1698 I/50-5 Edn of 20.1.50] p 15 cf

E & P.H. (I)

The United Nations Organisation, has asked the Govt. of India to intimate to them their requirements during 1950-51 in respect of:-

a. experts;
b. fellowship;
c. pilot projects and, training material; and,
d. seminar.

connected with the various branches of Social Welfare work, which ~~kx~~ they have been placing at the disposal of the member states with a view to helping them in their respective reconstructional programmes in the field of Social Welfare work. The Govt. of India have intimated to the U.N. the probable requirements of the country during the next two years in respect of Fellowships. In respect of the other three categories of services, the Govt. of India have asked the Govt. to intimate their requirements during 1950 and 51. p 1 cf.

2. Each Govt. requiring U.N. help is expected to participate financially in the cost of the various services provided to it. Experts furnished to Governments are deemed, during their terms of duty, to be employed by the United Nations, which accordingly assumes financial responsibility for: p 5 cf p 8 cf

(i) administration and supervision of the programme of expert services;

(ii) payment of experts' salaries; and

(iii) Payment of experts' travel to and from the recipient country, to the extent to which it cannot be paid by that country in local currency.

Requesting Govts. are expected to meet those expenses that can be met in local currency. Such financial participation includes: ibid

(i) provision of office accommodation and facilities, secretarial and clerical assistance, and, where necessary, interpretors;
(ii) payment of experts' travel within the recipient country in connection with their assignments;
(iii) payment of experts' per diem or subsistence allowances;
(iv) payment of experts' travel to and from the recipient country, to the extent to which it can be paid by that country in local currency; and
(v) provision of medical care for experts within the recipient country.

Govts. requesting for pilot projects and materials are expected to participate in the financial responsibility. ibid

The financing of a Seminar is shared as follows:- p 9 cf

(i) the United Nations assumes responsibility for salaries, per diem allowances and transportation of the seminar faculty and administrative costs of the organisation of the seminar;

(ii) the participating countries assume responsibility for transportation, salaries, if any, and per diem allowances for their national representatives; and

(iii) the host country provides facilities for holding the seminar; conference and office space, interpreters as found necessary, local transportation, secretarial staff, etc.

3. The three Universities, D.P.I., the Commr. of Labour, the I. G. of Prisons, the I.G. of Police, Chief Inspr. of Certified Schools, and the Women's Welfare Officer were consulted in the matter. From the reply received from the Annamalai University it is seen that the Universities were consulted by the Govt. of India directly and that they have sent their replies. The final replies from the I.G. of Prisons and the I.G. Police have not been received. They may be awaited.

pp 13-15 cf

p 19 cf.

Vide p 33 cf

4. The Chief Inspr of Certified Schools states that the certified Schools Department would like to have an expert in child delinquency to come over and train the members of its staff. As other Provinces and States and Universities may also ~~it~~ like to have this work done for them and as this Province has done more work in this line, he states, that the expert may be requested to work in Madras and train individuals deputed by the other Provinces, States and Universities. His deptt. does not require help in respect of Pilot Project and Seminar. ~~The D.P.I.~~

p 23 cf

The D.P.I. suggests that this Govt. might ask for a small mission of experts for exploratory work in 1951-~~52~~ or 1952 to study conditions and advise us. ~~in respect of:-~~ The following classes of experts may be required.

p 25 cf

1. Social Service expert
2. Visual Education Expert
3. Adult (Social) Education expert
4. Child Welfare expert
5. Physical Welfare expert
6. Expert in the field of Physically handicapped children.

He also suggests that the Govt. of India may be informed that this Govt ~~would~~ would be glad to sponsor a Seminar on Social Service.

The Commr. of Labour has no remarks to offer in respect of his ~~this~~ deptt.

p 27 cf.

The Women's Welfare Officer has suggested that the United Nations' help may be ~~soft~~ sought in respect of a number of items of social welfare work undertaken by the Department as stated in her letter on pp-31-32 c.f.

pp 31-32 cf

N p 2 cf

5. The Govt. of India have pointed out that in assessing the requirements of the Govt. it is very important that due regard should be paid to the Social Welfare programmes actually in hand so that the services asked for can be of direct and immediate use.

It is for consideration whether the suggestion of the D.P.I. will be supported in this Deptt.

It does not appear that the work in the directions contemplated could be taken up for execution in this country at the present stage all on a sudden without having had a start so far, although the various kinds of activities referred to had been tried, though not expanded and made into self-sufficient institutions themselves with a separate executive staff in charge of them.

Juvenile delinquency: This is a highly technical subject on which much scientific enquiry both psychologically as well as psychiatric have been made in advanced countries like England and America. No such start has been made in this country and it is doubtful whether it can be made in the near future. All that we have in this country are a few reformatory schools where the work done so far has been good enough. The standard of reformatory work will have to be considerably raised for which the advice of "Experts" who do not belong to communist sponsored countries may be availed of to such extent as is possible.

Prevention of crime and treatment of adult offenders:

The suggestions herein are presumably of an advanced and technical nature. Comments can be offered only after knowing details of it. Experiments, however, may be worthwhile. However I may add that this aspect of Police work has also to be dealt with in the same manner as the attention to be paid to juvenile offenders. All adult offenders belong to the same category as juvenile offenders though the motivating cause in their cases will be different. The right approach to reform adult offenders is also a psychiatric question. The Police alone cannot do everything in this line. There must be social centres in charge of public spirited men who should play their part in the work connected with the reformation of adult offenders. The Discharged Prisoners Aid Societies exist everywhere in districts but the scope of work done by them is very little. Their field of activities should be expanded by proper financing and increasing of its staff.

Prostitution: This crime is not on the same level as it is in the foreign countries where, so far as have appeared in publications, it has been turned into a trade in certain cities of European countries However it must be stated that it is gaining ground in this country also especially in the big cities, and it is necessary that the social welfare work done in this behalf should be considerably accelerated to that degree as not to leave it only to the present functioning of Seva Sadana Organisation. We lack public spirited bodies who could undertake this form of work from a purely social and humanitarian point of view without expecting all the help and Finance necessary to run the show from the Government only. The Police may act in this work only in unison with such bodies as they are already engrossed with other important items of day to day work connected with crime.

Police: The various ways in which the organisation and its operation can be expanded with an eye on social welfare have been suggested, but it is doubtful whether in the present development of our country these could be introduced now especially in these days of extreme financial stringency and economic depression. The suggestion that Police activities be positively directed to the prevention of crime by such methods as recreational, educational and social service programmes may be beneficial, provided it is well financed and organised with the assistance of social and political workers on a long range plan. Political workers, however, are generally averse to co-operating with the Police and this will presumably turn out to be a heavy drag which will have to be properly reckoned with and remedied by Government. However when opportunities offer themselves a start can be made in starting Bureaux in important places from where counsel and guidance could be offered to those in need of them, and children who are adrift are cared for until they are employed or put in schools. Here also public co-operation is an essential factor.

A special eye should however be kept on the choice of "Experts" who will be functioning to this country. We have already had experience of the detrimental effect produced in this country by the activities of violent organisations drawing their inspiration from the constitution of similar bodies elsewhere. It is therefore necessary that the "Experts" which we should have in this country should be those who belong to Pacifist country and would not join any communist activities in this country.
