apprentices under the present rules work almost the whole day, (ie) from 7 A.M. to 5 P.M. with only one hour's recess for tiffin. They have neither physical exercise nor recreation of any kind in the school. In the proposals for the re-organization of the school now before Government I have reduced the number of hours of work in the industrial classes and hope that the average attendance will show improvement in future.

3. The decrease in the number of students in the Industrial department was due, in addition to the reasons given in the report, to a strict observance of the rule regarding the grant of free scholarships to sons of of bona-fide artisans only. Prior to 1893, all apprentices were free scholars whether of the artisan class or not, and before 1892, apprentices were also provided with Drawing paper and some other materials gratis. But these special indulgences were discontinued during 1893 & 1894. This year, however, all apprentices will be made free as a return for the work which they do in the manufacturing department. This arrangement will, it is hoped, tend to increase the number of students in the Industrial classes. Results grants have been discontinued to the general education classes attached to the School of Arts. The items shown in statements A and B as "Results

"Results Grants paid from contingencies" represents the results grants drawn on behalf of the industrial standards under a mistake without my approval and sanction.

These grants have, however, been since ordered to be refunded.

5. Revised rules for the working of the school and proposals for its re-organization have already been submitted and the several other points noticed in the G. O. under reply have been referred to therein.

6. With reference to the remarks of Government in para 3 of G. O.
No. 730, dated, 3rd October 1893, that only a few of the students in the Industrial department appear appear for the Higher Government Examinations, I beg to observe that most of these students do not possess sufficiently high general educational qualifications to enable them to appear for these examinations, and consequently do not do so.

These are trained in the respective industries which they select and after training are either employed in the manufacturing department of the school on daily wages for the execution of orders or leave the school to take up private work. Only those whose general educational attainments are fairly high appear for the Government Examinations in the subjects they study at the school.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,

Your most obedient servant
J. Duncan
