GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

READ—the following paper:—

From the Honourable Mr. D. DUNCAN, M.A., D.Sc., Director of Public Instruction, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Madras, 12th June 1895, No. B.B.—468.

I have the honour to submit herewith the report of the Curator, Government Oriental Manuscripts Library, for 1894–95, together with my review thereon.

2. The report is due to Government on the 1st June, but owing to delay in getting the Sanskrit portion of the report printed and to the copies of the review having miscarried in post, the submission of the report has been somewhat delayed.

ENCLOSURES.

Proceedings of the Director of Public Instruction, dated 29th May 1895, No. BB—444.

Read the following letter from the Curator, Government Oriental Manuscripts Library, to the Director of Public Instruction, dated Madras, 30th April 1895, No. 9:—

I have the honour to submit my report on the working of the Government Oriental Manuscripts Library for the year 1894–95.

2. S. Vaidyanatha Sastriar, Vernacular Munshi of the Library, has been absent on sick leave on medical certificate from the 6th September 1894. Swaminatha Sastri, Sanskrit Pandit of the Cuddalore College, acted for him up to the 31st January, and from the 1st February the place has been held by Varadachar, a graduate of the last year.

3. The annual grant of Rs. 600 for contingencies was spent in the following manner:—

4. During the year under report, 32 Sanskrit and 2 Tamil manuscripts were copied for the Library, and 3 Sanskrit and 5 Telugu manuscripts, which were in an injured condition, were restored. One Tamil and 72 Sanskrit manuscripts were purchased. The number of the manuscripts presented to the Library is 133—124 Sanskrit, 6 Tamil, 2 Telugu and 1 Canarese.

5. The library was visited by 1,484 persons, of whom 618 were readers, 710 copyists, and 156 were mere visitors. The corresponding numbers in the previous year were 1,164, 579, 525 and 60, respectively. The following statement shows the numbers of persons who copied and read manuscripts on each subject, and also the total of those numbers:—

6. With regard to the work done by the staff of the Library, I beg to state that the most ordinary work is to attend to the wants of the visitors, such as taking out the manuscripts from the places in the bookshelves where they are kept and handing them over to the visitors, and, when they are returned, putting them back in their places. If the visitors want any information about the works mentioned in the catalogue of the Library, it is given to them as far as possible. This work is done by the peon and the clerk, and in his absence by the pandits.

For the safety of the manuscripts of the Library it is found necessary to clean them once in every year; and for this purpose one peon is always engaged in examining the manuscripts, while the other attends to the wants of the visitors. Every manuscript is examined carefully and cleaned, and the worms found are removed, and, if necessary, the earth oil, which is a very powerful preventive against the insects, is applied also. By examining and cleaning the manuscripts in this way, we are enabled also to find out those manuscripts which are much injured, and restore them by making fresh transcripts of them. The work of cleaning was commenced in September 1893, and completed in October 1894; and it was resumed a second time from November 1894, and is going on.

A general catalogue is prepared of all the works which are transcribed, purchased and presented every year, and is forwarded with the annual report. A catalogue was appended to the annual report of the last but one year (1893–94), and a similar one accompanies this report.

A descriptive catalogue of all the works collected during a year is prepared and will include the above catalogue, together with a description of the rare and important manuscripts, and some information about the works and the authors of these works, their dates, contemporary and past authors, and similar literary and historical matters which can be gathered from those works. For this purpose all the rare and important works which are collected during a year are studied by me and the pandits, and all passages and words occurring in the works which are likely to be of any use are marked and extracted, and the materials thus gathered will be embodied in the report. A catalogue of this kind has been in preparation for the books collected during 1893–94, and will be completed and submitted within a month or two. I shall then begin a similar catalogue for the works collected during the last year.

During the last summer vacation, I went to my native place Tiruppattúr, a town of the Salem district, where I examined the libraries of many pandits and prepared a catalogue of the manuscripts contained in those libraries. I selected from them such works as were rare and not found in the Library and got a loan of them from the owners. Some of them were transcribed for the Library during the year under report, and the remaining will be transcribed in the current year. Some manuscripts were obtained from their owners in the mofussil through the agency of my friends, and transcripts of them were made for the Library. Arrangements were made with Mr. A. Mahadeva Sastriar, Curator of the Mysore Oriental Library, to secure two permanent copyists to transcribe for our Library some rare and useful manuscripts which were discovered in the Mysore territory, and which the owners were unwilling to send to Madras. I got a catalogue of the very rich Palace library of His Highness the Maharaja of Travancore made for the use of our Library by Mr. Rajaraja Varma, M.A., Principal of the Sanskrit College, Trevandrum. Mr. R. Krishnamachar, M.A., an old student of the Presidency College, Lecturer, Maharaja's College, Pudukkóttai, was kind enough to prepare a catalogue of all the Sanskrit manuscripts of the Palace library of His Highness the Maharaja of Pudukkóttai. Arrangements will be made for acquiring copies of the most useful and important manuscripts of those libraries which are not found in our Library.

Owing to the absence of S. Vaidyanatha Sastriar on sick leave, none of the Library staff could be sent on travelling to any remote part of the Presidency in search of Sanskrit manuscripts, as the persons who were appointed to act for him were not trained in the work of searching for Sanskrit manuscripts. N. Rangachariar was however able to undertake short trips to Conjeeveram in the Chingleput district, and to Navalpakam in the Chittoor district; and brought rare manuscripts some of which were purchased and others copied.

In consequence of the reduction of the annual grant of Rs. 3,200 to the small contingent allowance of Rs. 600, the operations for the search and preservation of Sanskrit manuscripts became considerably curtailed. Travelling to the different parts of the Presidency in search of manuscripts, visiting the public and private libraries in each district, preparing the catalogues of the manuscripts found in those libraries and publishing them, have been given up. Our efforts are now confined simply to getting the catalogues of the libraries in the mofussil towns and villages through the agencies of friends, and by undertaking short and cheap trips to places which contain good libraries, getting a loan of the manuscripts from the owners, and having them transcribed in Madras, and, if the owner will not send them to Madras, appointing the local pandits to copy the manuscripts under the superintendence of trustworthy agents, and purchasing the manuscripts if the owners wish to sell them; and so on.

The above two catalogues refer to the manuscripts collected in each year. Apart from them there is a third catalogue which is a descriptive one and refers to the whole contents of our Library. It consists of about 15,000 slips, each containing the name of a work, a short description of the manuscript, and passages from the beginning and the end of it. The work was commenced in 1888 and it was finished about the end of March 1893 according to the annual report of 1892–93.

The following statements occur in the annual reports of 1891–92 and 1892–93:—

"The descriptive catalogue of the Sanskrit manuscripts has made steady progress during this year, more than a fourth part of the work is finished, and before long the whole descriptive catalogue will be ready for print. It is a work of great compass, and, as many extracts must be made with accuracy, it can only progress slowly.

"Besides attending to the usual routine work of the office, the establishment had to apply themselves vigorously to finishing the catalogue of Sanskrit manuscripts; and I am happy to be able to report that the above catalogue has been completed. If the several slips are carefully revised and alphabetically arranged, there will be no difficulty in printing the catalogue if it is thought desirable to do so."

From the above statements we have to infer that more than a fourth part (we may say roughly a third part) of the descriptive catalogue was finished by the end of March 1892. This work (that is, one-third of the whole catalogue) was commenced in 1888, and was completed in 1892, and so occupied four years; and if we calculate the time required for completing the remaining two-thirds of the work, we should have eight years at least. But, according to the annual report of 1892–93, this portion of the work—that is, two-thirds of the descriptive catalogue—was done and completed in one year. From this we have to infer that there was an undue haste in preparing the latter portion of the catalogue.

From the above statements it will be clearly seen that the work of the Library staff has considerably increased, as they have to study carefully all the important manuscripts which are collected during every year, and gather materials for a descriptive catalogue; and I hope that, notwithstanding the decrease of work owing to the reduction of the annual grant, better work will be turned out every year, and that what is lost in quantity will be made up by quality.

As usual, a register is kept in the office showing the work done by the staff of the Library. Two months were spent in examining the manuscripts collected during the year under report—six in studying the most important manuscripts and collecting materials for the descriptive catalogue, and four in revising the descriptive catalogue of the manuscripts of the library which was, as already stated, commenced in 1888 and finished before March 1893.

From the report of the Curator, Government Oriental Manuscripts Library, for 1894–95, the Director would characterize the work turned out as fairly satisfactory. The few changes in the establishment were owing to the absence of the Vernacular Munshi on leave from 6th September 1894.

2. These changes in a way rendered it difficult for the Curator to send any member of his establishment to distant parts in the Presidency in search of manuscripts. It was understood that, after the cessation of the annual grant for this purpose, the work would devolve on the officer conducting the archæological survey in the Madras Presidency (vide G.O. No. 2827, Public, dated 4th December 1885). The Curator, however, sent N. Rangachari to Conjeeveram and to a village in the North Arcot district and obtained through him some rare manuscripts. He himself, during his stay at Tiruppattúr at midsummer, got several manuscripts, which were in the hands of the local pandits, transcribed. He also arranged for the transcription of several rare manuscripts discovered in the Mysore territory; M.R.Ry. A. Mahadeva Sastri, the Curator of the Oriental Library in that state, giving the required help. He secured two catalogues: one of the Palace library of His Highness the Maharaja of Travancore by M.R.Ry. Rajaraja Varma, M.A., and another of the Palace library in the Pudukkóttai State by M.R.Ry. R. Krishnamachari, M.A. The names of these gentlemen deserve mention for the assistance they have rendered the Curator.

3. The number of manuscripts added to the Library during the year was 248 as against 331 during 1893–94, the fall being under those acquired by purchase and those acquired by gift. These two classes were respectively 73 and 133 as against 104 and 204 in the previous year. The number of manuscripts transcribed and restored increased from 23 to 42. The value of books purchased and the charges for transcription amounted to about Rs. 430 leaving only Rs. 170 of the contingent allotment of Rs. 600 for binding and other charges.

4. The Library was visited by 1,484 persons during 1894–95, an increase of 320 over the figure for 1893–94. There was also an increase in the number of readers and copyists, the numbers rising from 579 to 618 and from 525 to 710, respectively.

5. The descriptive catalogue has not yet reached a stage fit for publication. The Curator is requested to hasten the completion of this work as already required of him by Government in its Order No. 552, Educational, dated 1st August 1894.

6. The addition to the report of a descriptive catalogue of manuscripts yearly acquired, is very desirable. The Curator will see that this is done in future.

7. The Director notes with satisfaction the punctual submission of this report.

ORDER—dated 25th June 1895, No. 535, Educational.

Recorded.

2. It is matter for regret that the descriptive catalogue has not yet been completed. The work should be pushed on with as speedily as possible.

3. Under G.O., No. 2827, Public, dated 4th December 1885, the duty of search for Sanskrit manuscripts devolves on the officer conducting the Archæological Survey, and it should be reported how far the Library has benefited by this officer's exertions.

4. The Director of Public Instruction will be requested to convey to the gentlemen mentioned in paragraph 3 of his proceedings the thanks of Government for the assistance rendered by them to the Curator.

5. The following letter will be despatched to the Government of India:—

Government Oriental Manuscripts Library.

Read the following letter from the Curator, Government Oriental Manuscripts Library, to the Director of Public Instruction, dated Madras, 30th April 1895, No. 9 :—

I have the honour to submit my report on the working of the Government Oriental Manuscripts Library for the year 1894–95.

2. S. Vaidyanatha Sastriar, Vernacular Munshi of the Library, has been absent on sick leave on medical certificate from the 6th September 1894. Swaminatha Sastri, Sanskrit Pandit of the Cuddalore College, acted for him up to the 31st January, and from the 1st February the place has been held by Varadachar, a graduate of the last year.

In transcribing manuscripts	230	14	0
In purchasing manuscripts	199	8	0
In binding manuscripts	31	11	0
Minor contingencies	137	15	0

4. During the year under report, 32 Sanskrit and 2 Tamil manuscripts were copied for the Library, and 3 Sanskrit and 5 Telugu manuscripts, which were in an injured condition, were restored. One Tamil and 72 Sanskrit manuscripts were purchased. The number of the manuscripts presented to the Library is 133—124 Sanskrit, 6 Tamil, 2 Telugu and 1 Canarese.

5. The library was visited by 1,484 persons, of whom 618 were readers, 710 copyists, and 156 were mere visitors. The corresponding numbers in the previous year were 1,164, 579, 525 and 60, respectively. 6. With regard to the work done by the staff of the Library, I beg to state that the most ordinary work is to attend to the wants of the visitors, such as taking out the manuscripts from the places in the bookshelves where they are kept and handing them over to the visitors, and, when they are returned, putting them back in their places. If the visitors want any information about the works mentioned in the catalogue of the Library, it is given to them as far as possible. This work is done by the peon and the clerk, and in his absence by the pandits.

For the safety of the manuscripts of the Library it is found necessary to clean them once in every year; and for this purpose one peon is always engaged in examining the manuscripts, while the other attends to the wants of the visitors. Every manuscript is examined carefully and cleaned, and the worms found are removed, and, if necessary, the earth oil, which is a very powerful preventive against the insects, is applied also. By examining and cleaning the manuscripts in this way, we are enabled also to find out those manuscripts which are much injured, and restore them by making fresh transcripts of them. The work of cleaning was commenced in September 1893, and completed in October 1894; and it was resumed a second time from November 1894, and is going on.

A general catalogue is prepared of all the works which are transcribed, purchased and presented every year, and is forwarded with the annual report. A catalogue was appended to the annual report of the last but one year (1893–94), and a similar one accompanies this report.

A descriptive catalogue of all the works collected during a year is prepared and will include the above catalogue, together with a description of the rare and important manuscripts, and some information about the works and the authors of these works, their dates, contemporary and past authors, and similar literary and historical matters which can be gathered from those works. For this purpose all the rare and important works which are collected during a year are studied by me and the pandits, and all passages and words occurring in the works which are likely to be of any use are marked and extracted, and the materials thus gathered will be embodied in the report. A catalogue of this kind has been in preparation for the books collected during 1893–94, and will be completed and submitted within a month or two. I shall then begin a similar catalogue for the works collected during the last year.

During the last summer vacation, I went to my native place Tiruppattúr, a town of the Salem district, where I examined the libraries of many pandits and prepared a catalogue of the manuscripts contained in those libraries. I selected from them such works as were rare and not found in the Library and got a loan of them from the owners. Some of them were transcribed for the Library during the year under report, and the remaining will be transcribed in the current year. Some manuscripts were obtained from their owners in the mofussil through the agency of my friends, and transcripts of them were made for the Library. Arrangements were made with Mr. A. Mahadeva Sastriar, Curator of the Mysore Oriental Library, to secure two permanent copyists to transcribe for our Library some rare and useful manuscripts which were discovered in the Mysore territory, and which the owners were unwilling to send to Madras. I got a catalogue of the very rich Palace library of His Highness the Maharaja of Travancore made for the use of our Library by Mr. Rajaraja Varma, M.A., Principal of the Sanskrit College, Trevandrum. Mr. R. Krishnamachar, M.A., an old student of the Presidency College, Lecturer, Maharaja's College, Pudukkóttai, was kind enough to prepare a catalogue of all the Sanskrit manuscripts of the Palace library of His Highness the Maharaja of Pudukkóttai. Arrangements will be made for acquiring copies of the most useful and important manuscripts of those libraries which are not found in our Library.

Owing to the absence of S. Vaidyanatha Sastriar on sick leave, none of the Library staff could be sent on travelling to any remote part of the Presidency in search of Sanskrit manuscripts, as the persons who were appointed to act for him were not trained in the work of searching for Sanskrit manuscripts. N. Rangachariar was however able to undertake short trips to Conjeeveram in the Chingleput district, and to Navalpakam in the Chittoor district; and brought rare manuscripts some of which were purchased and others copied.

In consequence of the reduction of the annual grant of Rs. 3,200 to the small contingent allowance of Rs. 600, the operations for the search and preservation of Sanskrit manuscripts became considerably curtailed. Travelling to the different parts of the Presidency in search of manuscripts, visiting the public and private libraries in each district, preparing the catalogues of the manuscripts found in those libraries and publishing them, have been given up. Our efforts are now confined simply to getting the catalogues of the libraries in the mofussil towns and villages through the agencies of friends, and by undertaking short and cheap trips to places which contain good libraries, getting a loan of the manuscripts from the owners, and having them transcribed in Madras, and, if the owner will not send them to Madras, appointing the local pandits to copy the manuscripts under the superintendence of trustworthy agents, and purchasing the manuscripts if the owners wish to sell them; and so on.

The above two catalogues refer to the manuscripts collected in each year. Apart from them there is a third catalogue which is a descriptive one and refers to the whole contents of our Library. It consists of about 15,000 slips, each containing the name of a work, a short description of the manuscript, and passages from the beginning and the end of it. The work was commenced in 1888 and it was finished about the end of March 1893 according to the annual report of 1892–93.

The following statements occur in the annual reports of 1891–92 and 1892–93:—

"The descriptive catalogue of the Sanskrit manuscripts has made steady progress during this year, more than a fourth part of the work is finished, and before long the whole descriptive catalogue will be ready for print. It is a work of great compass, and, as many extracts must be made with accuracy, it can only progress slowly.

"Besides attending to the usual routine work of the office, the establishment had to apply themselves vigorously to finishing the catalogue of Sanskrit manuscripts; and I am happy to be able to report that the above catalogue has been completed. If the several slips are carefully revised and alphabetically arranged, there will be no difficulty in printing the catalogue if it is thought desirable to do so."

From the above statements we have to infer that more than a fourth part (we may say roughly a third part) of the descriptive catalogue was finished by the end of March 1892. This work (that is, one-third of the whole catalogue) was commenced in 1888, and was completed in 1892, and so occupied four years; and if we calculate the time required for completing the remaining two-thirds of the work, we should have eight years at least. But, according to the annual report of 1892–93, this portion of the work—that is, two-thirds of the descriptive catalogue—was done and completed in one year. From this we have to infer that there was an undue haste in preparing the latter portion of the catalogue.

From the above statements it will be clearly seen that the work of the Library staff has considerably increased, as they have to study carefully all the important manuscripts which are collected during every year, and gather materials for a descriptive catalogue; and I hope that, notwithstanding the decrease of work owing to the reduction of the annual grant, better work will be turned out every year, and that what is lost in quantity will be made up by quality.

As usual, a register is kept in the office showing the work done by the staff of the Library. Two months were spent in examining the manuscripts collected during the year under report—six in studying the most important manuscripts and collecting materials for the descriptive catalogue, and four in revising the descriptive catalogue of the manuscripts of the library which was, as already stated, commenced in 1888 and finished before March 1893.

From the report of the Curator, Government Oriental Manuscripts Library, for 1894–95, the Director would characterize the work turned out as fairly satisfactory. The few changes in the establishment were owing to the absence of the Vernacular Munshi on leave from 6th September 1894.

2. These changes in a way rendered it difficult for the Curator to send any member of his establishment to distant parts in the Presidency in search of manuscripts. It was understood that, after the cessation of the annual grant for this purpose, the work would devolve on the officer conducting the archæological survey in the Madras Presidency (vide G.O. No. 2827, Public, dated 4th December 1885). The Curator, however, sent N. Rangachari to Conjeeveram and to a village in the North Arcot district and obtained through him some rare manuscripts. He himself, during his stay at Tiruppattúr at midsummer, got several manuscripts, which were in the hands of the local pandits, transcribed. He also arranged for the transcription of several rare manuscripts discovered in the Mysore territory; M.R.Ry. A. Mahadeva Sastri, the Curator of the Oriental Library in that state, giving the required help. He secured two catalogues: one of the Palace library of His Highness the Maharaja of Travancore by M.R.Ry. Rajaraja Varma, M.A., and another of the Palace library in the Pudukkóttai State by M.R.Ry. R. Krishnamachari, M.A. The names of these gentlemen deserve mention for the assistance they have rendered the Curator.

3. The number of manuscripts added to the Library during the year was 248 as against 331 during 1893–94, the fall being under those acquired by purchase and those acquired by gift. These two classes were respectively 73 and 133 as against 104 and 204 in the previous year. The number of manuscripts transcribed and restored increased from 23 to 42. The value of books purchased and the charges for transcription amounted to about Rs. 430 leaving only Rs. 170 of the contingent allotment of Rs. 600 for binding and other charges.

4. The Library was visited by 1,484 persons during 1894–95, an increase of 320 over the figure for 1893–94. There was also an increase in the number of readers and copyists, the numbers rising from 579 to 618 and from 525 to 710, respectively.

5. The descriptive catalogue has not yet reached a stage fit for publication. The Curator is requested to hasten the completion of this work as already required of him by Government in its Order No. 552, Educational, dated 1st August 1894.

6. The addition to the report of a descriptive catalogue of manuscripts yearly acquired, is very desirable. The Curator will see that this is done in future.

7. The Director notes with satisfaction the punctual submission of this report.
