Requesting that he may be temporarily exempted from passing the Precis Writing Test.

Order of 31st July 1895 No. 642
 N. Venkatakrishna Rao, clerk at the Chief Secretariat, will be exempted from the Precis writing test until the results of the next examination are published.

The Secy. to the Govt. (from order)

For orders 29/7/95-

There have recently been several instances in which exemptions from the Precis writing test have been sanctioned. Some precedents are put up.

Krishna Rao is one of my judicial clerks. He appeared for the Precis writing test last October & failed. He applied for exemption, but his application was refused on 15.2.79. He now asks for a temporary exemption - as the failure bars his promotion. He is doing his work well & is particularly good at making copies of previous correspondence - a fact which CS. has himself noted on more than one occasion. I do not understand how he came to fail at the test; for he is certainly capable of writing a good precis; for, I submit, the experience which the CS. & I myself have had of his work is a better criterion of his efficiency than a single examination.

15-7-95

I agree with the H.S. and would recommend that the Commission should be favourably considered.

24/7/95

The application is strongly supported now. Temporary exemption (the results of next exam are known) may be granted. It

Honble Sir,

In February last I submitted an application to be temporarily exempted from passing the Price's Writing Test, owing to my unexpected failure in that examⁿ held in last Oct. which was the first chance for me, as a graduate, to appear for the Test, and was informed in G.O. of 19 Febry. 1895, No. 152, Edl, Mis, that my request could not be complied with. But as I understand that the rule requiring graduates to have passed the Test for acting in appointments of Rs 60 + upwards - has been subsequently relaxed in the case of several persons of outside offices, similarly situated like me, I most respectfully request that your honor may be pleased to move the Govt. to extend the concession to me also and exempt me temporarily until the results of Octy 1896 examⁿ are known. Praying to be pardoned for this trouble,

Yours remain

Yours most obedient, humble servant
