submit a short report of his work in future.

Note

All we know of Mr. Collins officially, except this very short report, is that he came here & went away again.
His advice & opinions & impressions are presumably of some value, (if not be for my little), & it will be useful to hear them.

Sir,
I have the honor to submit the report for in para 2 of your Proceedings No 13823 dated 21st ult.

2. Mr. Chinn commenced his lectures on 2nd November and completed them on 19th December.
Between to dates, he delivered 21 lectures each of one hour's duration. Some of the lectures were devoted to instructing the class, certain analytical processes, while others were occupied in going over portions of what is usually included in the

in Agricultural Chemistry. No doubt Mr Collins travelled over ground which had been previously gone over by me but I consider this an advantage. During previous years, the seminar never heard any views except those held by me on the various points included in Agriculture Advanced Part I. During the current session the men have heard Mr Collins' opinions and have consequently been able to see things from different aspects. I always considered it a great defect that our men studied such a subject as Agricultural Chemistry under only one teacher and I am glad during the current session the defect has been remedied. Mr Collins also held examination.
