qualified to give instruction in physics and Chemistry up to the M.A., and Bachelor of Science Examination of the Punjab University. It is indispensable that he should have had at least a good portion of his training in Europe, with considerable practise in a fully equipped laboratory, as, except in this particular, the present Assistant Professor, has all the necessary qualifications. He should also have had some suc-temperament likely to get into sympathy with College work in this Country, of thoroughly good character, and of agreeable
