A few months ago the whole Medical curriculum for degrees in the Madras University was thoroughly revised, the by-laws of both the M.B. & C.M. and L.M. & S degrees being considerably altered. These revised by-laws were brought into force this session and affect the new entries in both the sections of the College Department. Since the institution of the L.M. & S degree, the curriculum for the Apothecary Department of this College has been the same in every particular as that for this degree. As it is very desirable for many reasons to maintain the uniformity in the curricula of both these departments, I would strongly recommend that the scheme of examinations for the Apothecary department laid down in G.O. No 295 Educational dated 14th May 1888, be modified in the following manner so as to conform it to that now adopted for the L.M. & S. degree of the Madras University. Instead of the existing Primary and Final Examinations which are held at the termination of the second and fourth year of training respectively there should be three examinations held at the end of the second, third and fourth years.

2. The attached tabular statements show the existing scheme of examination for the College Diploma of Apothecary and that proposed as a substitute, based on the revised by-laws for the L.M. & S degree of the Madras University.

They are the same

3. The changes introduced by the revised bylaws have been pointed out in paragraph 11 of this year's Annual Report on the College and they tend to improve the course of study in many respects and make the testing of the students' progress more satisfactory and complete.

4. The favour of early orders on the subject is requested, as it is necessary to provide for the alteration in the course of study for this year.

I have &c
