Proceedings of the Madras Government, Financial Department, 15th April 1863.

No. 37. Read the following Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Financial Department, dated 21st March 1863, No. 1,054.

Read letter, No. 176, dated 10th November 1862, from the Board of Audit, on the expediency of separating the Military Books from the Civil General Books of the Government of India, and from the Civil Books of the Governments of Madras and Bombay, and on the advantage of assimilating the Annual Books of Military accounts, as to form and classification, with the Budget Estimate and Financial Statements of the Military Department.

RESOLUTION.—The Honorable the President in Council observes that the connexion between the Civil and Military accounts has been more or less discussed for the past three years, but their severance, were that to be finally decided upon, would require more than an approval of the general principles before effecting any change, it would be necessary to devise a well digested scheme for ensuring under any new system certain essential requirements of the Imperial accounts which are met by the existing system, viz., by that which for the past three years has been under discussion. No such scheme having yet been submitted to Government in proper detail, the Honorable the President in Council directs that, until further orders, the existing system be adhered to as regards the connexion of the Military with the Civil Books.

In giving effect to this decision, the Civil Department of account will make every possible allowance for alterations in points of detail which the Military Finance Department may have introduced in anticipation of a more radical change of system, so far as those alterations do not militate against the main or essential requirements of the existing Civil Books.

The assimilation of the Annual Books, in form and classification, with the Budget Estimates and Financial Statements of the Military Department, must be carried out on the same principles as those which have been followed under corresponding circumstances in the Civil Department.

Ordered, that a copy of this Resolution be communicated to the Board of Audit, the Governments of Madras and Bombay, the Military Finance Department, and the Deputy Auditors and Accountants General, Madras and Bombay.
