3. Ramalingum was pronounced by the Tillah Surgeon of Nellore to be physically unfit for further service; but the Deputy Inspector General, Indian Medical Department, was of opinion that, although advanced in age (70 years) he was still competent to discharge the duties of his department. The Collector of the District, however, was satisfied, after personal inspection, that the man was too old to discharge the responsible duties of a Taluq Sheristadar. Under these circumstances, & considering Ramalingum's
