No. 23. Read the following letter from the Acting Accountant-General, to the Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George, dated Fort St. George, 15th April 1871, No. 10:—

Audit Department.

I have the honour to solicit the orders of Government upon the question whether a Ministerial Officer, to whom short casual leave is granted by the Head of his Department, and who is unable, from illness, to return to duty at the termination of this leave, may be allowed to count his sick leave from the expiry of his casual leave, or whether the latter leave should be held to merge in the sick leave.

2. I consider that the entire absence should be treated as sick leave, my reason for this opinion being that the principle to be followed should be the same as in the case of any leave granted under the rules (which casual leave cannot be, not being referred to in the Regulations) where an extension of sick leave causes the whole period of absence to become sick leave.

No. 24. ORDER THEREON, 22nd May 1871, No. 200.

The Government observe that the grant or refusal of casual leave is discretional with Heads of Departments. The leave is not required to be reported to the Accountant-General, nor does it seem to the Government to be necessary that they should affirm a principle now which would tend to hamper Heads of Departments in the exercise of the privilege conceded to them.

2. The Government presume that when the Head of a Department grants a few days casual leave to a subordinate, and circumstances compel the latter to apply for privilege or other leave, that he uses his discretion in determining whether the casual leave shall merge in the other leave or not. With this discretion the Government are not disposed to interfere.
