FOR ORDERS.

I think that no further action than to place on record should be required in this case as the Land Grant Road. The law is highly penalizing and that should and it may be hoped that there will not with in a short time be further.

If this is the opinion of the Secretary under what authority have we a solicitor

Her Understood that Such evidence appearing the Manner the Book was true & that he believed the Surgeon to have been, on the particular nights described under the influence of liquor.
He showed Lamentable weakness in giving two contradictory Statements both for wh he has been punished, quite apparently by Dismissal from the Service. I think he ought to be allowed a chance of redeeming his character.

To Surgeon Spender, I think the Rules should not be departed. The Surgeon would be very glad to be employed. The Service would be any thing but beneficial to the Service.

Papers in the view taken by the Hon'ble the Govr & armed allow Apothecary Tripp to be employed under a Medical Board.
I have carefully read the Proceedings of the Court Martial. I can find no Evidence of malice in what Mr. Tripp said
My opinion is that

Under the Explanation given that Mr. Dicks does not become a Lunatic if for the Space no obvention to his being employed under the Local Funds Act.

[illegible]

On the 25th June 1871 Assist Surgeon Faulkner was arraigned before a Court Martial at Fort Adair on five charges.
Two of these charges only have reference to Assist-Apothecary
Hopps, viz
First charge. Assault by throwing a book at a Lance Corporal.
Third charge. Drunk when called to attend a sick Soldier -
With regard to these

... st. st and Secondly charges. Assist-Apothy Ripp handed in writing his Commanding Officer that Assist Surgeon Grant threw the book in a passion towards the orderly corporal, which struck him. and that Assist-Surgeon Grant was drunk on the occasion referred to - While he was about the same date handed in writing to Assist-Surgeon Grant that he did not mean to impeach by what he had said to his C.O. that

My opinion is that he (Assist-Surgeon Grant) had thrown the book at the Corporal, and that he (Assist-Apothy Ripp) had never seen Dr Grant at any time in a state unfit for the performance of his duties.

Assist-Apothecary Ripp was subsequently on 12th October 71 tried & dismissed Court Martial for "falsely, wilfully & "with intent to injure "Assist-Surgeon Grant "stated that he threw "the book in a passion" "at him and secondly charges. Assist Apothecary
