SIR,

In reply to your letter, dated 10th January 1873, No. 16, I am directed by this Government to state that they never had any intention of forcing all persons attacked by cholera into a cholera hospital, and that they are at a loss to understand how their orders, to which reference is made, could have been supposed to indicate any such intention.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,

Sanitary.

Sir,

The attention of the Governor General in Council has been drawn to entries Nos. 263 and 264 in the Financial Proceedings of the Government of Madras relating to certain sanitary regulations proposed for the town of Madras in seasons of Cholera.—

2. His Excellency in Council entirely agrees with the Government of Madras in rejecting the proposals made by the Officiating President of the Municipal Commission, and approves of the measures described in paragraph 3 of the orders upon Colonel Ritherdon's letter. But I am to express a hope that it is not intended to force all persons attacked by cholera to enter a cholera hospital. During the recent epidemic epidemic elsewhere such compulsion is understood to have caused considerable and, as it seems to the Governor General in Council not unnatural dissatisfaction. Cholera hospitals for the poor and friendless and for such patients as choose voluntarily to attend them are excellent institutions, but His Excellency in Council does not think it desirable to compel all who are attached by the disease to resort to them.—

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your most Obedient Servant,

R. Stewart
