No. 156. Read the following letter from E. F. HARRISON, Esq., Comptroller-General, to all Accountants-General, dated Calcutta, 22nd April 1875, Circular No. 202:—

Under Section 9 of Supplement A of the Civil Pension Code, Native Members of the Covenanted Civil Service may be allowed by Government to subscribe for like benefits to those secured to European Members who contribute to the Civil (or Provident) Fund.

2. I append, for your information, copy of a letter addressed by Government to a Native Officer who has applied for this permission. The rules of the existing funds will, as to the rates and conditions of subscriptions, apply to Native Officers, and to secure that object, the Managers of the Bengal Civil Fund have, at my request, kindly consented to keep for the present an account for each Native subscriber from the Bengal Civil Service. You should therefore arrange to furnish full information to the Fund Office.

3. For Members of the Madras or Bombay Service, the Accountant-General must arrange either (if the Managers of those Funds consent) as has been done in Bengal, or failing this, an account must be kept for each subscriber, and care taken to apply to it the rules for the time being of the Civil or Provident Fund.

4. No difference need be made in the salary bills or at the Treasuries between Natives and Europeans, but where the Fund Office keeps the account, the subscriptions from Natives should be entered by the Accountant-General, below the total of Fund subscriptions proper, on the monthly list rendered to the Fund Office, the amount being credited to XVI.—Receipts in aid of Superannuations, &c., under a minor head "Provident Subscriptions by Native Civil Servants" instead of to the Fund.

From R. B. CHAPMAN, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department, to BABOO ——— ———, Bengal Civil Service, Barisal, dated Fort William, 23rd February 1875, No. 854.

Pensions and Gratuities.

In reply to your letter, dated 8th instant, I am directed to inform you that the Governor-General in Council is pleased to allow you to make payments to the Government, under Section 9 of Supplement A to the Civil Pension Code, in order to secure for your family the benefits provided by the rule in that section.

2. Your subscriptions under these orders and the benefits to which your family will be entitled, will be regulated by the rules of the Bengal Civil Fund. I am directed to forward herewith copy of these rules as revised to 1872; any subsequent and future revisions made by proper authority in these rules will be applied to you as if you were a subscriber to the Bengal Civil Fund, but the Government cannot undertake to acquaint you with such modifications.

3. Should any change be made in the relations between the Government and the European Members of the Bengal Covenanted Civil Service as regards the Bengal Civil Fund, the concession herein made to you will also be subject to reconsideration.

4. You should report to the Accountant-General, Bengal, the date of your marriage to your present wife, if you are already married, and, hereafter, to any wife whom you may marry while you have no other living wife, forwarding, in each case, a certificate signed by two respectable witnesses of your marriage according to some lawful form. You should also report the name, and birth-day according to the Christian era, of your wife (if you have a wife living) and of each child for whom you wish now to secure benefits under these orders. Like particulars must be submitted in case you wish hereafter to secure benefits for any wife to whom you may hereafter be married, or for any child who may be hereafter born to you.

5. You will not hereafter be permitted to subscribe for benefits for your present wife (if you have a wife now living) unless you return her name in the report immediately due from you to the Accountant-General; nor will you be allowed hereafter to subscribe for benefits for any child now living whose name is not included in this report. This report should be made within one month from your receipt of these orders.

6. Inasmuch as you cannot secure benefits for a wife married to you in the life-time of another wife, or for the child of a wife married to you in the life-time of another wife, it will be necessary that you certify, in the case of the wife for whom you may wish to secure benefits, that on the day when you married her you had no other wife living, and, in like manner, that on the day when the mother of each child, to secure benefits for whom you now, or hereafter, tender subscriptions, was married to you, you had no other living wife.

7. On receiving the information which you are now invited to supply, the Accountant-General will inform you of the amount due from you month by month, and deduct it from your salary and allowances in accordance with the rules of the Bengal Civil Fund. The claims of your family to benefits under these orders will begin as soon as you have paid your first subscription.

8. With reference to certain rules of the Bengal Civil Fund, the operation of which depends upon the amount which a subscriber has paid with interest from time to time, a pro formâ account will be furnished to you yearly, showing the subscriptions which you have paid to the end of each year, with interest added as if you were a subscriber to the Bengal Civil Fund.

9. But you must understand clearly that under no circumstances will you or your family have any claim to any return from the Government for the subscriptions which you may pay under these orders, otherwise than in the shape of the authorized benefits to your family after your death, and that the Government will render to you no account of the appropriation of your subscriptions.

Ordered, that a copy of the above letter be forwarded to the Comptroller-General, and to the Accountant-General, Bengal. The Comptroller-General will be good enough to issue the needful supplementary instructions to all Accountants-General for the credit of such subscriptions under a separate sub-head of the Revenue Account No. XVI.—Receipts in aid of superannuation, retired and compassionate allowances; also for the maintenance of such an account of the subscriptions received from Baboo as may be necessary in order to apply to him and his family the regulations of the Bengal Civil Fund.
