Government Press,
Madras 20th May 1895

Office Note.

The Superintendent, Government Press, submits the following particulars for the information of the Chief Secretary to Government, and solicits a favourable consideration and sanction for the machinery asked for.

1. In consequence of the increasing quantities of type produced by the type foundry, a steady addition is being made to the type plant of the press, and the piecework Compositors are kept more continuously at work than formerly, there being more type available. The budget allotment has not always enabled the Superintendent to increase the number of printing machines at a proportionate rate to the increased number of formes required to be printed off, but this year three more machines are being added at the Government Press.

2. For many years the Penitentiary Branch Press was able to strike off some of the long-number gals required by the Government Press, and lessen the need for working late. ~~There~~ During the past three years owing to the changes introduced regarding the printing of work for collectorate the Branch Press has not been able to give so much assistance, as the work for the Collectors occupies their full time, and their work is likely to get into arrears for want of more machinery. The Superintendent of Stationery is now checking the indents for the Collectors, and he will be asked next year to take up the checking of indents for blank forms for the Session Judges and Subordinate Courts. As regards the machinery plant at the Penitentiary Branch there are two machines almost useless which produce very little work and they are frequently under repair to keep them going. These will be sold off next year, and two new machines will be purchased out of next year's budget grant to replace them.

4. To keep pace with the increasing work at the Penitentiary Branch, and to enable it to give some assistance to the Government Press with long number jobs as formerly, the Superintendent now solicits a special grant of Rs. 8,250 for the purchase of three royal wharfedale printing machines to be put up in the Branch Press. By this means there will be no complaints later on regarding the delay in supply of form for the districts, and the working
