READ—again the following papers:—

G.O., dated 17th October 1894, No. 853, Financial.

ABSTRACT.—Issuing certain instructions in regard to casual leave.

G.O., dated 6th April 1895, No. 301, Financial.

ABSTRACT.—Stating that the rule that applications for privilege leave should be considered with reference to the amount of casual leave previously granted to the applicant, does not apply to gazetted officers.

READ—also the following paper:—

From M. HAMMICK, Esq., I.C.S., Inspector-General of Police, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Madras, 29th March 1895, No. 1811.

I have the honour to say that the existing rule restricting casual leave to five days at a time has been represented to me as a hardship on the police. Mr. Mullaly, the Superintendent of Police, Salem, represents the peculiar position of the police.

He says—

“It has been represented to me, and with good cause, I think, that the recent orders of Government regulating the grant of casual leave operate very harshly with regard to inspectors and the rank and file of police.

“The men never get any holidays of any sort; gazetted holidays, third Saturdays in the month and times of public merry-makings are enjoyed by all other classes but are of no account to the policeman, who is supposed to be ‘always on duty.’ Men working in district offices get these privileges but not so men working in divisions, and I submit that an appeal might be made on their behalf. Men have their vows to perform at distant places, marriages and domestic festivals to attend, and often it occurs that they have no privilege leave due or that the five days’ limit of time is insufficient, and if ten days’ casual leave cannot be given when necessity arises, dissatisfaction must prevail when the men see others enjoying public holidays from which they are debarred by reason of the duties they have to perform.

“I would therefore respectfully submit that the rule should not be made applicable to inspectors and the rank and file of the force and that as formerly the discretion to grant casual leave for a period not exceeding ten days at a time or fifteen days in the year should rest with District Superintendents.”

3. I agree with Mr. Mullaly, and should be very much obliged if the Government could see its way to make a special concession in the case of the police.
