Local and Municipal Department,

PROCEEDINGS OF THE MADRAS GOVERNMENT.

Read the following papers:—

Telegram From the Collector of Anantapur, dated 21st February 1897, stating that the approximate cost of plague sheds as proposed by the Surgeon General is Rs.14000 and requesting to place funds at his disposal and remarking that suitable tents appear more economical.

Letter from the Surgeon General with the Government of Madras, No.82 dated 20th February 1897, stating that ~~he~~ retained the services of temporary Assistant Surgeon, ^{to assist Surgeon General} Captain Macrae, and suggesting that he be permitted to detail two Hospital Assistants in addition for that duty, and stating that there ~~are~~ are no female apothecaries available.

ORDER No.315 M., dated 26th February 1897.

The Government is of opinion that the Surgeon General's estimates of requirements at the Guntakal Inspection station are in many respects ~~are~~ excessive.

2. As regards the staff, an Assistant Surgeon and a Civil Apothecary are not both needed. The latter should suffice as the Medical officer's immediate subordinate, with a staff of at least four hospital assistants and a female apothecary or ^{menial} hospital assistant. Four ~~medical~~ servants may be entertained for the present.

3. As to the accommodation required for establishments, ~~to~~ temporary huts may be built for, the civil apothecary, the hospital assistants, the female medical subordinate and the servants and also for the medical officer in charge of the camp if he is unable to retain the quarters which it is understood he is now occupying in the railway premises. The Surgeon-General's proposals that these huts should be built with cement floors and tiled roofs are considered to be quite unnecessary. They may readily be built of bamboos with walls of mat and roof of thatch and palm leaves of the requisite thickness to be sufficient protection against the sun and weather; or of such other similar material as may be commonly used in the neighbourhood for huts of the kind.

4. As to hospital huts as there are not likely, the Government trusts, to be many cases at one time under treatment for the plague it will suffice at any rate to start with to construct one male & one female hut for Europeans and Eurasians to accommodate say two in each, and one male and one female hut for natives of India to accommodate say four in each with the same number of segregation huts.

5. The Government does not consider that separate huts are required for the dispensary and stores, nor for a camp and waiting room. The dispensary and stores may be kept in the civil apothecary's hut while the patient's property may be kept in the charge of the Police who have been placed by the Inspector General of Police on duty at the Guntakal camp. A separate hut will however be needed for stores--- both provisions and medical stores linen &c, --- if no room is available in the old station building. The arrangements for cooking, latrine and other subsidiary accommodation will be regulated with reference to the main requirements as indicated above.

6. The Financial Department will be requested to place a sum of Rs. 500 at the disposal of the Collector for the construction of huts as indicated above. The Government considers that this amount will probably suffice for present requirements.

7. The Surgeon General will be requested to advertise at once for three female apothecaries or hospital assistants to be employed at Guntakal, Arkonam and Tuticorin. If they cannot be secured by this means he must arrange to close some of the dispensaries and transfer the persons required for the camps.
