Copy of a communication No. 4269 dated 3rd August 1898 from The Director General of the Post Office of India to The Postmaster General, Madras.

With reference to your letter No. 576 dated the 22nd July 1898 suggesting the publication of a set of rules relating to the Postal Insurance Fund for public use, I have the honor to say that the question was recently under consideration on a reference received from the Government of India; and I enclose for your information a copy of the remarks made on the subject by the Director General.

Copy of U.O. No. 93 dated 5th February 1898 from the Director General of the Post Office of India, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Dept. of Finance.

According to the arrangements the Post Office has nothing to do with making the Life Insurance rules known or distributing them except within the Department.

It

N. 2294 1898

It would see, however, that the Resolution has not been quite understood as I have had a number of applications for -- copies of the rules. In each case I have sent a few copies and explained that the duty of making the rules known and distributing copies does not rest with the Post Office. What the Post Office has -- undertaken is to furnish a copy of the -- rules to every person who insures his life.

The local Governments and Departments have to make the rules known to the officers who have to work the machinery, and also to arrange that they should be -- available for Government servants generally to see.

The proposal of the Punjab Government to print the rules in the Local Gazette seems wise, but I do not think that it is necessary that they should be translated into the vernacular. While the rules were applicable to this Department only, it was not found necessary to have them translated into into any vernaculars.

It has already been arranged in this Department that a certain number of spare copies of the rules should be made available, so that any officer of the Department who may wish to see a copy may do so. I am not perhaps called upon to advise as to the best way of making these rules available in other Departments, but am inclined to think it is not necessary that copies should be provided on sale at post offices for this purpose. I am moreover opposed to any charge being made for a copy of a body of rules like these intended for Government servants.

SIR,

Having had applications from the officers mentioned in the attached list for copies of the Postal Life Insurance Rules I referred the question as to the advisability of distributing them through Postal Agency to the Director General of the Post Office in India and received the attached reply. From this it would appear that it is intended that the duty of distribution is to be performed by the Local Governments and Heads of Departments concerned.

In the beginning of this year the Govt. of India issued certain rules enabling all Civil officers & certain Military officers to subscribe to the "Postal Life Insurance Fund". Of these rules 3800 copies were received & ^{about} 3200 of these have up to date been distributed as follows:—

N In the meanwhile certain officers (last flagged A) have been applying to the Postmaster General for copies of the rules. The Postmaster General, after a reference to the Director General of the Post Office, transfers to this Govt.
 the application of these officers with a suggestion that ~~the~~ arrangements may be made for the "general dissemination of the rules."

By The point for orders is how the suggestion of the Postmaster General may be given effect to. It will be seen from the fact that certain officers have

* Rule 3 - B

been applying to the Postmaster General for copies, shows that the wide distribution already made of the rules has not been quite sufficient.
 The minimum sum for insurance being so low as Rs 50, the circle of those who may avail themselves of the Fund is very wide, and as a result advantages of the F come to be appreciated the demand for copies of the rules is likely to increase to a ^{great} extent. It is therefore submitted that the rules may be put in three successive issues of the Govt. St. Press.

The Director General of the Post Office, ^{of India besides} in his letter to the Postmaster General, refers, with approbation, to a ~~similar proposal~~ of the Punjab Govt. ~~to~~ to publish the rules in the local Gazette. Such a course ~~will~~ will have the effect of bringing the rules ^{within} the reach of every one who is likely to avail himself of the

Let's

Post 11 seems unnecessary to publish the rules in the Gazette. It would be better, perhaps, to issue a notice.

The rules are too long to publish in the Gazette. Try the notice proposed for the Gazette directing that the rules should apply to the offices of all departments and instructing the heads of departments to obtain copies from the Supdt. of the Govt. Press the balance of the 3800 copies in the Secretariat could be sent to the Supdt. to meet demands perhaps we might apply for more copies to meet contingencies

Wait till they are wanted
