FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

READ—again the following papers:—

G.O., No. 679, Financial, dated 9th October 1896.

ABSTRACT.—Passing orders on the subject of the printing of sessions judgments.

G.O., No. 1649, Judicial, dated 16th October 1896.

ABSTRACT.—Approving, as revised by the High Court, the draft rules relating to the compulsory printing of judgments and orders against which an appeal lies to the District Courts.

READ—also the following paper:—

From A. L. HANNAY, Esq., Registrar of the High Court of Judicature, Madras, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated 19th July 1899, Ref. on Cur. No. 1217.

The Acting Sessions Judge of Nellore has requested the High Court for an authoritative ruling as to the method of calculation of charges for printing sessions judgments when the number of words falls short of 175, inasmuch as the Accountant-General has objected to the method of calculation adopted in his court, viz., 4 annas for every 175 words and one anna for every 50 words or fraction thereof. He has followed this method, as G.O., No. 679, Financial, dated 9th October 1896, provides that the rate should not exceed that at present allowed for civil judgments (G.O., No. 1649, Judicial, dated 16th October 1896).

2. In order to ascertain the practice in two or three other courts, the High Court called on the Sessions Judges of Bellary, Tanjore and South Malabar to report what methods were in force in those courts. The Sessions Judges of Bellary and South Malabar state that they adopt the method followed in Nellore, whereas in Tanjore the practice till November last was to pay the printer at 4 annas for every 175 words or fraction thereof for each printed judgment. The Accountant-General having objected to this course payment since last November has been made at 4 annas per 175 words and one pie per $\frac{175}{48}$ words on a fraction thereof. The High Court is of opinion that the rule followed by the Sessions Court of Nellore is the simplest and should be followed by all the courts. As the Accountant-General has objected to that method, I am directed to refer the matter for the orders of His Excellency the Governor in Council.

ORDER—No. 941, Financial, dated 29th August 1899.

The Government concurs with the High Court and the following will be substituted for the last sentence of paragraph 1 of G.O., No. 679, Financial, dated 9th October 1896:—

“The printing at private presses will, however, be subject to budget provision and to the condition that the rate does not exceed that allowed for civil judgments, viz., 4 annas for every 175 words completed, and for the remaining words one anna for every 50 words or fraction thereof.”

G. STOKES,
Chief Secretary.

To the Judicial Department.
Honourable the Chief Justice of the High Court (with C.L.).
Accountant-General.

The Acting Sessions Judge of Nellore has requested the High Court for an authoritative ruling as to the method of calculation of charges for printing sessions judgments when the number of words falls short of 175, inasmuch as the Accountant-General has objected to the method of calculation adopted in his court, viz., 4 annas for every 175 words and one anna for every 50 words or fraction thereof. C.No. 2675.

Note.

G.O.No.679,Financial, dated 9th October 1896 permitted Sessions Judges to employ private or Collector-ate presses, as were most convenient to them for printing judgments. The printing at private presses was, however, subject to budget provision "and" "to the condition that the rate does "not exceed that at present allowed "for Civil judgments, viz. 4 annas "per 175 words."

2. In the rules for printing Civil judgments approved in G.O.No. 1649,Judicial, dated 16th October 1896 it was laid down that the charges for printing judgments at private presses were to be reckoned "at the rate of 4 annas for every 175 "words completed, and for the remain- "ing words, one anna for every 50 "words or fraction thereof."

3. This Judicial order was not communicated to the Accountant-Genl., and in the absence of the information therein contained, that officer has laid down in his Treasury Account
