Raisina, Delhi,
March 4th, 1917.

Sir,

In view of the announcement made with regard to the Round Table by the Lieutenant-Governor of the United Provinces on January 29th, I beg to inform you that I am asking the Round Table Group, which existed at Agra before I came here, to dissolve, and that I have no doubt that they will accede to my request. Please accept my assurance that no Round Table groups will be organised either during the war or afterwards until such time as the Government may issue general regulations defining the conditions under which Government servants and others may associate for the study of political questions, and has advised me of their doing so.

I shall be obliged if your Department will accept my personal assurance to this effect and inform local Governments accordingly.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

sd/- Lionel Curtis.

To

The Secretary to the Government of India,
Home Department.
