HOME DEPARTMENT (MISCELLANEOUS)

G.O. No. 1293, 11th August 1920

Census

Classification of cities — Orders passed.

READ—the following paper :—

Letter—from G. T. BOAG, Esq., I.C.S., Superintendent of Census Operations, Madras.

To—the Secretary to Government, Home (Miscellaneous) Department.

Dated—the 29th July 1920.

No.—272.

I have the honour to request the orders of Government on the subject of towns to be treated as cities at the Census of 1921. I enclose a list of the places which will be treated as towns.

2. In 1911 the following special tables were prepared for all towns :—

Imperial table IV. Towns classified by population with variation since 1871.

V. Towns arranged territorially with population by religion.

3. The following additional tables were prepared for cities :—

VII. Age, Sex and Civil condition.

VIII. Education.

XI. Birth place.

XV. Occupation or means of livelihood.

XVIII. Europeans, Armenians and Anglo-Indians by age.

4. In the Imperial Census Code a city is defined as—

(1) Every town containing not less than 100,000 inhabitants.

(2) Any other town which the Provincial Superintendent, with the sanction of the Local Government, may decide to treat as a city for census purposes.

In 1911 there were only three places—Madras, Madura and Trichinopoly—with a population of 100,000 or over. It is probable that all these places will maintain their position as cities at next year's census. But it is not likely that there will be any addition to their number; for Calicut—the next largest place—had a population of only 78,417 in 1911. The question for decision now is whether for these three towns alone the special tables prescribed for cities should be prepared; or whether Government wish to repeat the orders of 1911 and have these tables compiled for all towns with a population of 50,000 and upwards. In G.O. No. 3452, Revenue, dated 28th October 1910, the Government ordered that all towns whose population on the date of the 1911 census should be 50,000 and over were to be treated as cities. And Bellary and Coimbatore were treated as cities even though their population fell below the 50,000 limit—please see G.O. Mis. No. 2577 Revenue, dated 24th August 1911.

5. In his letter read in G.O. No. 3452, Revenue, dated 28th October 1910, Mr. Molony stated clearly the arguments for and against expanding the definition of a city so as to include all towns with a population exceeding 50,000. Many of these places exhibit neither the appearance nor the statistical features commonly observed in accepted 'cities'; and some of them are actually rural rather than urban in character. Inasmuch however as the preparation of the special tables is chargeable to Imperial funds, and since the comparison of the statistics of 1921 with those of 1911 for these towns may afford some interest, I recommend that the Government repeat the orders of 1910, and require all towns with a population of 50,000 and upwards to be treated as 'cities.' I request the favour of early orders as I have to report the Local Government's decision to the Census Commissioner shortly.

From the Superintendent, Census Operations, Madras, No. 272, dated 29th July 1920.

In submitting a list of places to be treated as towns in the ensuing census, the Census Superintendent solicits the orders of Government as to which of the towns should be classified as cities for census purposes. In the Imperial Census Code a city is defined as follows:—

- (1) Every town containing not less than 100,000 inhabitants;
- (2) any other town which the Provincial Superintendent with the sanction of the Local Government may decide to treat as a city.

2. At the last census all towns in this Presidency with a population of 50,000 and over were included in the category of cities (G.O. No. 3452, Revenue, dated 28th October 1910). In 1911 eight towns had a population of between 50,000 and 100,000, while Madras, Madura and Trichinopoly retained the rank of cities according to the strict statistical signification. If the limit of 50,000 inhabitants, the criterion adopted at the last census, is recognized as a valid claim to cityship on the forthcoming occasion, it is likely that Coimbatore and Bellary, which were specially included as cities in 1911, may come up to the required standard in the ensuing census (G.O. No. 2577, Revenue, dated 24th August 1911). Vellore, which very nearly touched this limit, may be expected to reach this figure, as also Rajahmundry and Mangalore.

3. The special tables referred to in paragraph 3 of the Superintendent's letter will be compiled separately for any towns which the Government may now decide to treat as cities. The Census Superintendent recommends that the criterion followed on the last occasion may be adopted this time also. If his recommendation is accepted, the draft order submitted below is for approval.

From the Superintendent, Census Operations, Madras No. 272, dated 29th July 1920.

In submitting a list of places to be treated as towns in the ensuing census, the Census Superintendent solicits the orders of Government as to which of the towns should be classified as cities for census purposes. In the Imperial Census Code a city is defined as follows:—

- (1) Every town containing not less than 100,000 inhabitants;
- (2) any other town which the Provincial Superintendent with the sanction of the Local Government may decide to treat as a city.

2. At the last census all towns in this Presidency with a population of 50,000 and over were included in the category of cities (G.O. No. 3452, Revenue, dated 28th October 1910). In 1911 eight towns had a population of between 50,000 and 100,000, while Madras, Madura and Trichinopoly retained the rank of cities according to the strict statistical signification.
