FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

Read the following Despatch from the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for India, dated 30th September, No. 26 of 1859.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE MADRAS GOVERNMENT, dated 14th November 1859, No. 627.

Judicial letter, dated 12th February 1859, No. 5.

Submit memorial from Lieutenant Colonel H. Colbeck, Police Magistrate at Madras.

13. Colonel Colbeck, who was appointed Police Magistrate at Madras in 1850 retired from the Army in 1853 on the pension of a Major, but as he retained his appointment as Magistrate, his pension merged in the salary of Office.

14. In the memorials now submitted, he prays either that his pension may be issued to him with arrears since the date of his retirement, or that the combined period of his Military and Civil Service may be permitted to count as entitling him to pension on his present position of an Uncovenanted Servant.

15. I see no reason for making the case of Colonel Colbeck an exception to the rules under which Pension is merged in the salary of Office, or to that which precludes service in a Military capacity being admitted as qualifying for a Civil Pension, and I must therefore decline to comply with the recommendation which you have submitted on Colonel Colbeck's behalf.

(True Extract.)

(Signed) T. Pycroft
Chief Secretary.

3. Ordered that the remaining portions of the Despatch be communicated to the several Departments in which the subjects were considered.

To the Judicial Department.
