I have the honor to report for the information of Government the arrangements made by me with reference to Section XII of the Police Act.

	Salary.
Inspectors in 6 classes... ..	40 to 200
Head Constables... ..	14
Deputy Constables... ..	10 8 0

4. The only exception I would make (and even they ought to subscribe to the Superannuation Fund) would be to reserve the right of those Officers who, being now in the public service and of a grade entitling them to pension under the Rules, may join the Police service in either of these ranks. They clearly should not lose the claims their previous service has established. My reason for wishing to make this exception, is that the Police service, although so important to the well-being of the people, is not at present popular with those experienced officers of the public service whom it is obviously our interest to encourage to join it. If in addition to unpopularity there is a positive loss, (for such the Native service will deem the loss of the claim on the Government pension) the difficulty will be insuperable. But the main consideration is one of positive right. Changes are being inaugurated, which will result in throwing a large class of the Native servants out of employment; I am anxious to provide employment for as many of them, as are at all fit for the Police; and I am satisfied that they are entitled to have their rights as regards pensions continued to them.

No. 74. ORDER THEREON, 30th May 1860, No. 673.

2. The six classes of Inspectors, whose salaries range from 40 to 200 Rupees a month, will be admitted to the benefit of the Uncovenanted Service Pension Rules. All the other inferior grades of the Police will contribute to the Superannuation Fund, created by this Section of the Act.

Initial

Service Pension Rules.

All the ^{other} inferior grades of the Police will contribute to the Superannuation Fund, created by this section of the Act. The deductions are made at the rate of Six Pice ~~from~~ ^{from} each man's pay.

3. As regards those servants, who may join the Force, from other branches of the service & from grades eligible to pension, their obligations to subscribe to the Superannuation Fund, will be decided strictly according to the rule rule in the preceding para. They will of course reckon their previous service in other departments for pension. The manner in which the pensions, or gratuities, eventually granted to them, will have to be charged i.e. whether to the Fund, or partly to it & partly to the General Revenue, will be ^{settled} in each case individually.
