No. 316. ORDER THEREON, 24th October 1866, No. 1688.

The Governor in Council directs that the Chittoor plan of Privy, which is very similar to that in use at Bangalore, be adopted as the standard plan of Privy for Central Jails, with the addition of shallow asphalted troughs in the verandah, for washing, and similar troughs outside, to be used as Urinaries. These troughs will be flushed by a stream of water flowing through them into a channel carried for some distance beyond the precincts of the Jail.

No. 98. Proceedings of the Madras Government in the Judicial Department.

Passing orders on a letter from the Inspector General of Jails, communicating his views on the remarks of the Government of India on the plans of Central Jails which have been adopted in this Presidency. (Here enter 6th June 1866, No. 906.)

No. 99. From the Inspector General of Jails, to the Secretary to Government, Public Works Department, dated Madras, 22nd June 1866, No. 34.

1. With reference to our conversation regarding the length of privy required for a Central Jail, I have the honor to state that if built according to the Chittoor or Bangalore plan it ought not to be shorter than 200 feet, which appears a convenient length.

2. In the Bangalore privy there are eight troughs on each side, which easily accommodate nine men each at the same time, making 144 in all, which number I would not wish to exceed. At this rate each man would take up 32 inches, which I am informed is ample.

3. The length of a privy, according to the Bengal plan, for the accommodation of 144 persons can be calculated with reference to the plan received from Calcutta, which is herewith enclosed, and which shows that it requires a privy 98 feet long to accommodate 36 persons.

4. A detailed plan of the privy in the Bangalore Central Jail is also forwarded for your inspection. In the outer verandahs there are shallow asphalted troughs for washing, corresponding in length and number with the troughs inside. These are flushed by a stream of water which flows through a drain to a distance beyond the walls.

No. 100. ORDER THEREON, 5th July 1866, No. 2,111.

CIVIL WORKS, No. 16.

1. Resolved that the orders above recorded be communicated to the Superintending Engineers of the 1st, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th Divisions.

2. The plans of latrines received from the Inspector of Jails will be referred for consideration in the Judicial Department, to which Department it is understood the proposed Standard Plan of Jailer's quarters has been submitted by Colonel Wilson.
