3. As regards paragraph 1, advertising to explanations required in paragraph 15 of the Order in the Judicial

Department, I have the honor to explain that the Tripooroor Sub-Magistrate's Cutcherry was not built in 1864, it was only repaired and slightly enlarged in that year. The Range Officer, on the 20th September, reports that the building is a very old one, and originally badly built. The Madranticum Talook Cutcherry is hot and close in portions of the building, because it was built on a sanctioned standard design for all Cutcheries, which did not admit of much ventilation. This design has, however, been since abandoned, and the present building will now have free ventilation introduced. The Jail portion of the Ootramalloor Cutcherry was built long before the other portion, and it was not repaired in April last, but some years ago. In July 1866, Rupees 200 were expended at the Collector's request in introducing iron partitions to separate the prisoners; and the bad state of the roof was, at the time, reported by the Executive Engineer, but no funds remained available then for the work.

4. In the Chingleput Police Station estimate, provision has been made for re-roofing nearly the whole of the building; and in the estimate for the subsidiary Jail at the same station, the roofless building has not been made available as a cook-room, as suggested by the Committee, but it has been found necessary to allow for re-building the walls.

5. The Madranticum Talook Cutcherry is a terraced building, the roof supported on joists of just sufficient thickness to bear the weight. It has been thought undesirable, therefore, to pierce windows of the breadth proposed by the Committee, but the amount of air and light required has been given by doubling the height of the present windows, which have flat arches turned over them.

6. As regards paragraph 2, I beg to state that a rough plan of a Cutcherry for Trivellore was drawn up by me, on the Committee's suggestions. I have since sent it to Mr. Sim, and I understand that he has forwarded it to Mr. Chisholm, in view to certain alterations and additions being made in it. As soon as an approved design has been determined upon, I shall submit plans and estimates.

Referred to the Judicial Department, with reference to the Order in that Department, dated 20th July 1867, No. 1,155. Money can be made available from the allotment for Talook Cutcheries.
