To

The Chief Secretary to Government, Judicial Department, Cotacamund.

Sir

In para 6 of his letter, dated in page 26 of the 6th June 1894, No. 514. In printed in the G.O. dated 8th September 1894, No. 2186-2192 Judicial, Mr. Bradley recommended the extension of the telegraph line to Angadipuram, and remarked as follows:—

"The line would be inexpensive to construct, and, though it may not pay, it would be of great advantage upon an emergency like the recent outbreak."

As orders have not been passed on this point, I beg to invite the attention of Government to the matter. If a telegraph office cannot be established at Angadipuram

Angadipuram, telephonic communication between Malapuram, Kadannamanna, and Angadipuram might be reestablished. Kadannamanna is almost midway between Malapuram and Angadipuram, and a Police Station is to be reestablished there.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
your most obedient servant.
A. G. Collector.

FOR ORDERS.

Ask the Tel. Dept. whether they can extend the telegraph to Angadipuram, & what the cost wd. be of telephone comm. between the 3 places named. A telegraph might partly achieve the purpose, but a telephone comm. would be more useful for the purpose, I think

As to whether a telegraph office ^{may be} established at Angadipuram or telephonic communication between Malapuram, Kadannamanna

No definite orders appear to have been passed before at this point. The defects in the signalling apparatus alone were noticed in para. 5 (3) of Mr.
Boulton's note for orders (on page 35 marked with tape in the original G.O. 2186-92 of 8.9.94 Judd) & the matter was left to the Mly. Dept. for consideration: vide para. 8 (1) of the G.O.

No idea has been given of the cost of constructing & maintaining a telegraph line between Malapuram and Angadipuram (distance about 13 miles). ~~Is~~ A telegraph line would probably cost but little more than a telephone line with a break in the middle requiring an extra operation: further a telephone line would not be so effective. It seems hardly ^{reasonable} ~~worth while~~ to have telegraphic communication between these two ports especially as there will be a police post mid-way
