Regina et Imperatrix v. Auttulatamma Ammal

Sir,

I have the honor in accordance with the provisions of Section 466, Clause II, of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Act II of 1882), to report the case of one Auttulatamma Ammal who was on the 24th June last charged before me with having committed seven separate offences of Theft and Theft in a building and being found in possession of property which may be reasonably suspected of being stolen or fraudulently obtained and failing to account satisfactorily as to how she had come by the same, punishable under Sections 379 & 380 of the Indian Penal Code, and Section 65 of the Madras City Police Act III of 1888. One of two series of cases, Calcutta N. 14047 of 1895, was first taken up for trial in the course of which it was found necessary to submit this report.

The facts of the case, Calendar No. 14047 of 1895, as proved by the evidence adduced on behalf of the prosecution are these:—

The accused is a widow living in Washermanpet on the bounty of her son who sends her a remittance from Penang. On the afternoon of the 15th June last, when Police Constable Govindasamy H/299 was on beat in a street in Washermanpet, he saw accused carrying something bulky under her arm.
On suspicion he stopped her and questioned her what it was under her arm and, on her replying that it contained nothing, he examined and found it to contain Volume II of Gant's Surgery valued about Rs 15. The subject matter of the case. On being further questioned by the Constable, she said that the book belonged to her son and that as he had gone to Rangoon she was taking it. The Constable then marched her to station. Another Constable, Madurai No. 4/868, speaks to his having taken the book on the day following at 3 p.m. to the Monger Monthly Hospital, where it was claimed and identified by the Prosecutor A. J. Home, who is the Resident Apothecary there, and to his having subsequently searched the house of the accused and taken charge of articles 78 in number found therein which form the subject matter of the other charges against her. The prosecutor says that the book together with the 1st Volume was given to him as a prize for merit in Surgery, and that he missed it from his house about a week before the 24th June. He further produces the 1st Volume and points to his name on the title page thereof. At the close of the prosecution and before the framing of the charge, I put some questions to

to the accused who began to talk incoherently.

3 ——— Having doubts as to the sanity of the accused, I remanded her to Her Majesty's Penitentiary for medical observation. The Medical Officer Surgeon Major S. C. Sarkis sent in a Certificate in Form A and a Medical History sheet pronouncing her to be a person of unsound mind, and further deposed that, in his opinion, the accused was not capable of making her defence and that she was suffering from Chronic Mania, due probably to poverty and starvation.

there detained for safe custody and treatment pending the orders of Government which I have now the honor to solicit.
