From J. P. HEWETT, Esq., C.I.E., Officiating Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department (Public), to the Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras, dated Simla, 29th July 1895, No. 1145.

In accordance with Rule VI (6) of the rules issued under the Indian Arms Act (XI of 1878), licenses to import rifles of such quality or in such quantity as may reasonably be held to be intended for bonâ fide sporting purposes at certain ports may be granted by the Commissioner of Police in a Presidency Town and by the Magistrate of the district elsewhere, but under Rule VI (5) of the same rules a special order of the Governor-General in Council, certified under the signature of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department, is required before a license can be given for the importation of rifles which do not come within this description. It has been decided, as stated in paragraph 2 of my letter, Nos. 978-981, dated the 26th June 1895, that certain kinds of rifles which are capable of being used for military purposes, although they may be imported for bonâ fide sporting purposes, shall not be imported without the special order contemplated by Rule VI (5). In connection with those orders the Governor-General in Council has had under consideration the desirability of defining more precisely the kinds of rifles which are capable of being used for military purposes. His Excellency in Council is now pleased to direct that, for the future, all rifled arms which are fitted for a bayonet or sighted beyond a range of 300 yards shall be considered as rifles capable of being used for military purposes, and that a special order under Rule VI (5) shall be required for their importation.

2. I am to request that, under the orders of His Excellency the Governor in Council, half-yearly returns, commencing with the half-year ending the 31st December 1895, may be submitted to this office showing the number and description of all rifles imported, and distinguishing those imported under Rule VI (5) from those imported under Rule VI (6).

From J. P. HEWETT, Esq., C.I.E., Officiating Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department (Public), to the Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras, dated Simla, 29th July 1895, No. 1145.

In accordance with Rule VI (6) of the rules issued under the Indian Arms Act (XI of 1878), licenses to import rifles of such quality or in such quantity as may reasonably be held to be intended for bonâ fide sporting purposes at certain ports may be granted by the Commissioner of Police in a Presidency Town and by the Magistrate of the district elsewhere, but under Rule VI (5) of the same rules a special order of the Governor-General in Council, certified under the signature of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department, is required before a license can be given for the importation of rifles which do not come within this description. It has been decided, as stated in paragraph 2 of my letter, Nos. 978-981, dated the 26th June 1895, that certain kinds of rifles which are capable of being used for military purposes, although they may be imported for bonâ fide sporting purposes, shall not be imported without the special order contemplated by Rule VI (5). In connection with those orders the Governor-General in Council has had under consideration the desirability of defining more precisely the kinds of rifles which are capable of being used for military purposes. His Excellency in Council is now pleased to direct that, for the future, all rifled arms which are fitted for a bayonet or sighted beyond a range of 300 yards shall be considered as rifles capable of being used for military purposes, and that a special order under Rule VI (5) shall be required for their importation.

2. I am to request that, under the orders of His Excellency the Governor in Council, half-yearly returns, commencing with the half-year ending the 31st December 1895, may be submitted to this office showing the number and description of all rifles imported, and distinguishing those imported under Rule VI (5) from those imported under Rule VI (6).

ORDER—dated 24th August 1895, No. 1769, Judicial.

Communicated to the Board of Revenue (Separate Revenue), all District Magistrates, the Commissioner of Police, Madras, Messrs. P. Orr & Sons and Oakes & Co., Madras, for information.

3. The Public Department will be requested to include the half-yearly return in the list of periodical reports and returns.

In accordance with Rule VI (6) of the rules issued under the Indian Arms Act (XI of 1878), licenses to import rifles of such quality or in such quantity as may reasonably be held to be intended for bonâ fide sporting purposes at certain ports may be granted by the Commissioner of Police in a Presidency Town and by the Magistrate of the district elsewhere, but under Rule VI (5) of the same rules a special order of the Governor-General in Council, certified under the signature of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department, is required before a license can be given for the importation of rifles which do not come within this description. It has been decided, as stated in paragraph 2 of my letter, Nos. 978-981, dated the 26th June 1895, that certain kinds of rifles which are capable of being used for military purposes, although they may be imported for bonâ fide sporting purposes, shall not be imported without the special order contemplated by Rule VI (5). In connection with those orders the Governor-General in Council has had under consideration the desirability of defining more precisely the kinds of rifles which are capable of being used for military purposes. His Excellency in Council is now pleased to direct that, for the future, all rifled arms which are fitted for a bayonet or sighted beyond a range of 300 yards shall be considered as rifles capable of being used for military purposes, and that a special order under Rule VI (5) shall be required for their importation.

2. I am to request that, under the orders of His Excellency the Governor in Council, half-yearly returns, commencing with the half-year ending the 31st December 1895, may be submitted to this office showing the number and description of all rifles imported, and distinguishing those imported under Rule VI (5) from those imported under Rule VI (6).

Communicated to the Board of Revenue (Separate Revenue), all District Magistrates, the Commissioner of Police, Madras, Messrs. P. Orr & Sons and Oakes & Co., Madras, for information.

3. The Public Department will be requested to include the half-yearly return in the list of periodical reports and returns.
