should be incurred on account of privilege leave granted by Heads of Departments. This G. O. was duly communicated to ^{the} Superintendents of Central Jails, but the condition prohibiting extra expense was unknown to Mr. O'Hara, who expected to receive the usual remuneration for the additional work and responsibility devolving on him. In these circumstances the grant of the allowance on the present occasion as a special case is recommended.

3. Copy is enclosed of a Circular No. 6831, dated 18th December 1894, which I have issued to prevent the recurrence of a misunderstanding of this nature.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant

H. J. Cardew

Inspector General of Prisons.
