2ND MAY 1883, No. 1189, JUDICIAL.

GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.
JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

READ—again G.O., dated 24th January 1883, No. 192, Judicial.

READ—also the following paper:—

From T. WEIR, Esq., Registrar of the High Court of Judicature at Madras, Appellate Side, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Madras, 21st April 1883, No. 1516.

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated 24th January 1883, No. 192, forwarding copy of the Order of Government of the same date and number (Judicial), and of the letter of the Inspector-General of Police, dated 28th December 1882, No. 6654.

2. The Inspector-General of Police is correct in stating in paragraph 11 of his letter that clerical errors have been allowed to occur in the figures in Register A showing the columns of Statements Nos. II and IV, to which the total entries in certain columns are to be transferred. Register A has accordingly been revised, and the same opportunity has been taken to recast the Statements Nos. II, IIa, and III, and to add to them the instructions required for their preparation.

I enclose corrected forms and have to request that they may be substituted for those which accompanied my letter of the 15th December last.

3. With reference to the exceptions taken by the Inspector-General, in paragraph 9 of his letter, to certain columns of Statements Nos. II and IIa, which accompanied my letter of the 15th December last, I am to make the following observations:—

Column 15 of Statement No. II is clearly the total of Columns 11 to 14, as Columns 11 to 15 are under one major head "Brought to trial."

Column 28 of the same statement was intended to show the grand total of the subordinate totals in the preceding Columns 20, 21, 26, and 27, and it would be unmeaning to suppose that it could include any other column.

Column 10 of Statement IIa is clearly the total of Columns 7 to 9, as Columns 7 to 10 are under one major head "Sent up to Magistrate for trial."

Column 11 of the same statement was intended to show the grand total of subordinate totals in the preceding Columns 6 and 20, and it would be unmeaning to suppose that it could include any other column.

4. With reference to the general observations of the Inspector-General of Police (paragraph 9) to the effect that the forms appear to be complicated to be understood by the ordinary members of the public without any considerable illustration and explanation, I am to state that the forms are not more complicated than those hitherto in use, and that they are easily understood with a little attention and practice, by any intelligent person.

Forms more complicated have been in use since 1881 in connection with the statistics of Civil and Criminal Courts, and these have not been submitted without difficulty or material errors by the Courts concerned.

INSTRUCTIONS.

(REGISTER A.)

NOTE 1.—This Register is cast in such a form as to supply materials for most of the columns of Statements Nos. II and IV, Part 1. Only disposed-of cases, in which the accused appeared, should be entered therein. Columns 2, 3, and 4 have no corresponding columns in either of the two statements mentioned. Column 2 is simply intended to mark the identity of the case and thus to prevent a repetition. Columns 3 and 4 supply the data for the solution of the entry in Column 5.

2. The several columns of the two Statements Nos. II and IV, Part 1, to which the entries in this Register go, are indicated in the last two figured horizontal columns, the former giving the corresponding columns of Statement No. II, and the latter, of Statement No. IV, Part 1.

3. The total of the entries in each column of the Register should be transferred without alteration to the statement and column indicated below it in the horizontal column; the following are exceptions:—In the case of Column 1 of the Register, the entry to be transferred to the statement is, not the total, but the last entry, and in the case of Columns 7 to 11, which concern only Statement No. IV, Part 1, it will be necessary to add respectively to the totals of the entries in those columns, the number of persons (to be ascertained from the Court's File Book) pending inquiry or trial under each head, and to treat the grand totals so obtained as the entries for the several columns respectively indicated below them in the horizontal column. In the case of Columns 6 and 12, it will be necessary to add respectively to the totals of the entries in those columns the number of cases and persons disposed of under Sections 247, 248, and 259 in the absence of the accused (to be ascertained from the Court's File Book), and to treat the grand total so obtained as the entries respectively for Columns 12 and 22 of Statement II, which are indicated below them in the horizontal column.

4. If the fact of receipt by transfer or commitment or on reference is noted in the remarks column, it will save reference to the records for the purposes of Columns 4, 5, 18, and 19 of Statement No. II and of Columns 6, 12, and 20 of Statement No. IV, Part 1.

5. This Register is practically a Ledger by offences. The heading of each page will be the particulars of the offence, and for this purpose the printed Schedule of Offences annexed must be adhered to. One or more pages must be set apart for each offence according as the experience of the Court may suggest as necessary for a year. No cases under the Code of Criminal Procedure, except those indicated in the schedule, must be entered in the Register. In the column of Remarks should be shown how many of the persons entered against headings 8 and 10 were dealt with summarily under the provisions of Chapter XXXV of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in how many cases entered against other heads, the complainant was required to pay compensation to the accused under Section 250, or the defendant, in addition to the punishment inflicted upon him, was required to give recognizance or security to keep the peace under Sections 106 and 123, and in how many cases entered against heading 75, the orders of the Court of Session were taken under Section 123. The list given of offences under Special and Local Laws is not meant to be exhaustive. Separate entry should be made in alphabetical order of each Special or Local Law, other than the Criminal Procedure Code, against which offences have been committed. Attempts, where not separately specified in the Schedule, should be entered immediately after the offences at which they are attempts. Abetments should be included with the substantive offences abetted.

"Number of Head of Crime" at the head of the Register means the index number as given in the printed Schedule. Every person should be entered under the "Head of Crime" under which the Magistrate finally dealt with him. Where an accused is tried under more than one head of charge, he should be exhibited under the principal one only, unless he happens to be accused of entirely distinct offences supported by separate evidence, in which case the trials would be separate, and the results independent.

6. It will be observed that cases under Chapters X, XI, and XXXVI of the Criminal Procedure Code find no place in the annexed Schedule of Offences. It is intended that Statement No. III alone should deal with them—

Column 3.—Enter the latest date, whether it be the date of appearance or that of the receipt of the order of Transfer, Commitment or Reference.

Column 5.—Enter all cases in which a Magistrate declared that the charge was false, and that the offence never occurred, as also all cases in which the complaint was adjudged to be frivolous or vexatious, and the complainant was fined under Section 250.

Column 6.—Enter here all cases disposed of, other than those entered in Column 5.

The High Court does not therefore share in the apprehension of the Inspector General that the forms will not be readily understood by those who have to compile them.

5. I am also to point out that, if the proposal to discontinue the B Form, which formed part of the proposals made in this Court's letter of the 15th December last, is accepted, there will not only be no increase of statistical compilation imposed on the Magistracy, but an actual decrease.

As matters now stand, the Magistrates have, since 1881, to compile Register A on which Judicial Statement No. IV is based. Register A comprises statistical information classed in 27 Columns. The B Form Register, which Magistrates have also to compile and which it is proposed to discontinue, contains 32 Columns. In all, therefore, Magistrates have now to compile, for these two Registers, statistical information classed in 59 columns.

The combined A Form Register, which is described in the Court's letter of the 15th December last (paras. 7, 8, 9 and 10) will contain 35 Columns and will take the place of the A Register hitherto in use, as well as of the B Form Register. Making allowance for information not available in the combined Register A, the Magistrate's establishment will, under the proposals now made, be saved. It has been found, the labor of compiling as many as more than 10 Columns of statistical information.

6. With reference to the observations in the final para. of the Government Order under reply, I am to state that in the opinion of the High Court some addition to the work of compilation in the offices of the District Magistrates appears to be unavoidable.

The returns for the Magistracy of each District must be abstracted by the chief local (District) authority before submission to the central authority, and this work cannot, it is submitted, be done otherwise than by the Magistrate, who is responsible for the supervision of the subordinate Magistracy of the District.

The High Court is not prepared to say that the increased work may not render necessary some extra clerical assistance to the District Magistrate's establishment, which, possibly, may be available by a reduction of the Statistical Department of the Police.

7. I am to observe that the returns which the Court has now for two years endeavored to obtain are returns which it is empowered to call for, and are similar to returns, which are submitted to the High Courts of other Presidencies, and which, in its recent Order on the appointment of a sixth Judge, the Government of India assumes, are submitted to the High Court of this Presidency.

The Court, therefore, trusts that His Excellency in Council will not insist on the delay suggested in the Order under reply.

Enclosure 1.

(with 5 spare copies of the letter

Acknowledging the receipt of G.O. of 24 January 1883 No. 192,
and by 4 of the letter of the Assistant Registrar of Police of 28 Decr 1882 No. 6682
& enclosing with certain remarks correcting statistical forms of Registrar, A, to be substituted for those which accompanied the Court's letter of 16 Decr 1882
last, & making certain observations regarding the statistical compilation in the offices of the District Magistrate.

From the Registrar High Ct. of 15 Dec
1882 in G.O. 24 January 1882. No 192

" " 21st April 1883. No 1516.

The above deal with the new proposed returns of Criminal Statistics.

In the first letter the Registrar
submitted certain forms. A, I, II
II. a. III which he proposed should be submitted to the High Ct by the Magistrate, for the future

Collocte, while agreeing generally with the Registrar submitting the forms suitable

forward certain objections one being that the forms were too complicated. The papers were returned to the High Ct for reconsideration, and the Registrar now submits them again.

There does not seem to be any reason to suppose that there will be any difficulty in

G.O. 192.
24. 1. 83

nature of the forms themselves, in filling them up. The only difficulty which will be felt will be in the amount of clerical work thrown on the Dist Magistrates & District Magistrate.

It is thus, as matters now stand Magistrates fill up form A, which has 27
columns, and form B
which has 32 columns.
Now substituted by the High Court one form A of 35 columns:

Existing work:

$100 \times 27 = 2700$ columns.

Proposed:

$100 \times 35 = 3500$ columns.

But instead of sending these forms to the police, they will send them to the Dist Mag.
who will have to compile the District returns which will largely increase the compiling work in the District.

19
The High Court admit that ~~extra~~ work will be thrown on District officers but suggest that some extra establishments
may be employed and some corresponding reduction made in the police establishments.

It is not probable that the J. G. P. will be able to reduce his establishments.
He will still have the returns necessary for his report to prepare, which are very voluminous.

However there does not appear to be any way avoiding the increase of work in the Dist Mag's offices, and there can be no doubt that the returns will be very much increased.

The Registrar in the closing paragraph of his letter asks that the returns may not be delayed
to the next year as the Govt.

in their last order suggested, but should involve great labour and cause much inconvenience to introduce the change now as it would be wiser to do so without writing up the back returns from the beginning of the year.

Present order 2 May 1889

The Govt approve of the introduction of the returns
 submitted by the Court, from the beginning of the next Calendar year. The Inspector General of Police will be requested with reference to the remarks made in paragraph 6 of the letter from the High Court, to report if the changes proposed will render a revision of the Statistical Department of his office possible.

 All Dist Magistrates
