The Acct. Genl's attention is invited to G.O.R. No. 631. of June, 1890. Public.

& he is requested to state whether the present case differs from that of which there is no objection related & to which no objection was taken by the Govt.

2. It would be competent for Govt. to grant a temporary increase of pay to the clerks concerned.

The clerks concerned emolument amounts to Rs. 140 & 125

as a permanent arrangement, & it seems to follow that there can be no objection to passing such emolument for a time only.

3. The arrangements followed but are held not to have been directly connected with the above.

Not rectified within the above period.

Sir

In reply to your Reference on C.N. 2123, of 1890, dated 13th December 1890, I have the honor to state that as I was not in either case informed of the reasons for the temporary scale of pay allowed, I am not in a position to say whether there is any difference between them. But, on the occurrence of a distribution of pay which bore the appearance of being an irregular apportionment of acting allowances, I considered it my duty to challenge it.

2. I now understand that the G.O. was in each case intended to convey the formal sanction of Government, as such, to a revised though temporary scale of pay for a portion of the Office Establishment and not merely to represent a distribution by the Head of the Government.

Government Office, as such, of the savings arising from the absence or leave of some of the clerks, in a way opposed to the rules in the subject, and in the present instance I shall raise no further objection, but I venture to point out that in all future cases Proposition statements in duplicate should be sent to this Office in the usual way.

I have the honor to be,

Sir
