CHAIRMAN,

Municipal Council,

TRICHINOPOLY.

To,

Hon. Chief Secretary to Government.

Local and Municipal Department,

FORT ST. GEORGE.

Through the Collector of Trichinopoly.

SIR,

I have been requested by the Council to submit to you, for favor of advice, the following question about the liability of the Reverend Teachers of St. Joseph's College, Trichinopoly, to pay Profession Tax.

There are 14 of these priests employed as Teachers and Professors in the College. They receive no pay or salary for themselves. But grants are paid to them by the Government, their services being given "Salary Value" for purposes of fixing said grant.

Though these Padres have been here some years carrying on the Profession of Teachers, they have not had to pay any Profession

Profession Tax to the Municipality. It seemed to me there was no reason why they should enjoy this privilege, and with a view to fixing the assessment, I requested Councillor the Rev. Father Sewell to favor me (in his capacity of Manager of the College) with a list of said Professors with their salaries.

That gentleman, however, refused: and I had then to apply to the Director of Public Instruction for the information which he was kind enough to furnish - in the form of a statement copy of which is appended.

Assessments were issued upon the said basis, and when notices of Demand were issued, the Father Rector raised objections to the legality and informed me plainly that as the assesses had no private property, I could not realise said taxes by issuing warrants. The only alternative left left me was to prosecute these Fathers before a European Magistrate; but before taking this extreme step, the Council think it desirable that they should be fortified in their opinion by the views of Government.

The Sub-Assistant Inspector of Schools is of opinion that the Fathers should pay, at any rate upon the amount of the Provincial Grants - which they are given and upon which they are paying Income Tax.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

M. Rungaswami
Chairman.
