populous parts of the town. The other source of water supply of great importance is also at some distance from the town and the difficulties in procuring water from the former are applicable to it also. Such being the case the towns people will generally refuse good water to others most reluctantly. The consequent sufferings and hardships are to be imagined better than described. This being a Municipal town the Taluk Board also refused on previous occasions to open water ponds and refused Memorials re on the subject to the Municipality for compliance.

Under these circumstances the provision for a water pond for 3 months at least on Rs 8 per month with an oversight and surely a clerical mistake.

This town is always noted for its scarcity of water. The Government also noticed it already on several occasions.
The principal sources of good water supply of this place are only the Ranga Row's tank and the wells therein situated. Even these wells dry up altogether or so deep in the hot weather that the supply can only be had at some cost of money in some cases and in all cases invariably at considerable degree of trouble and labour, both in the scorching sun and dark nights, though for some days in a month, in respect of the latter.

Further the tanks are situated at the western extremity of the town at a very great distance from the
