I do not know exactly what ought to be done in this case as I can find no precedent exactly fitting. According to the strict letter of the law the land is perhaps properly a part of a street but running as it does not left than 19 ft. from the outer edge of the road drain this seems rather far fetched. The ground evidently could never have formed part of the street. I do not think the law ever contemplated a case of this sort. If one admits land such as this to be street where is one to draw the line? I incline to the view as drafted by the Office though I am not quite sure as to its strict legality. I however do not feel justified in a doubtful case such as this in passing an order which on whatever side it is held forms a

This piece of land appears to come under the definition of "street" as defined in sec. 3 (vii), but in several cases recently the land between the drainage channel & the adjacent houses has been held not to vest in the Council. This is a similar piece of land.

Sir,

I have the honor to request that Government will be pleased to sanction the sale of a piece of land, measuring 48' x 15' or 80 square yards, in front of the building occupied by the sub-post office, Commissary Bazaar, to one Hakeem Syed Ibrahim Sahib, the owner of the aforesaid building.

2. The land in question borders a very deep channel and is thereby dangerous to those persons who have business at the Post office and who have constantly to cross this channel on their way to and fro.

3. By enclosing this land the public are afforded shelter from sun and rain whilst at present they are exposed to both.

4. Besides this the land is of no practical use to the Municipality nor
