land in exchange.

If the vacant site situated to the south of the road is selected, the Parayas' hamlet lies on the east near the village and the village on the west adjoining to it. There is not a distance of even half-a-furlong. Princes Mahabaksh Bahadur settled that the proposed site and the remaining site in the land he left uncultivated for the use of Pariahs (men and women) at a small part of

of Rupees 10 and a further rent for the tamarind & trees (according to their produce) when they yield, so that no inconvenience might be felt by them in its use, although more rent could be realized thereon.

Moreover, the practice obtaining in towns as well as in villages like this where there are Unions, is to stone the rubbish of the scavenging carts at a distance of more than 2 or 3 furlongs from the village but not contiguous to it. But I never saw the rubbish being stoned in such a place as that between a village and its hawlet. I request that the practice also may be observed. This site also is nearer the village than the one ^{shown} ~~shown~~ to you by me for storing the rubbish. The lands adjoining to it fetch a rent of Rupees 10-8-0 per acre when given out for cultivation. The value of the adjoining lands in the village referred to in your Memo is Rs 1, annas 12 & annas 8 for a square yard for building houses, according to the necessity. I cannot decide whether compensation or land in exchange is required. I have written to Krishnaallaharajah Bahadur on the subject as as per your memo no. $\frac{109}{10.3.96}$. I shall let you know on receipt of orders. You did not inform me at the time of selecting the site in question.
