To

The Chief Secretary to Government,

Sir,

In reply to your memorandum dated the 7th instant No 792, I have the honour to state that "roads and streets" within the limits of unions have not been included in the list submitted by me purposely. In the list as originally prepared they were included but I struck them out recording an office note to the following effect as my reason.
"For the present at any rate I would omit roads and streets in unions" and in any case the definition is too general. The unions do not actually maintain all the roads and streets within their limits but very far from it. Most of them if not all have main roads passing through them which are maintained by and used in the Taluk Boards or District Boards as the case may be and any road maintenance done by the Unions is trifling. If the entry is to remain at all, it must be limited to "maintained" roads and streets. I, however, object strongly to the inclusion of even these, for the real fact is, and my opinion is based on practical experience, that to vest in the panchayats the power and responsibility of dealing with encroachments is generally to say that nothing will be done. Whenever a panchayat or any of its members does attempt to do anything the result as an invariable rule is dissensions and quarrels within the panchayat itself and such general unpopularity and hostility outside if the panchayat or members insist on removing encroachments that the panchayat is much hampered in every way in the performance of its other and principal duties. The Union

Union as an institution is nowhere, I find, popular as it means additional taxation, and to vest the duty of protecting roads and streets in Unions in the Panchayats is only inventing a safe method of stirring up discord within the Panchayat and of bringing it as a body into conflict with the public unless it lets encroachments pass unnoticed. It is therefore inadvisable at present in the interests of the Panchayats themselves and of road protection both to entrust them with the latter. Much the best course is to leave the duty of protecting the roads and streets against encroachment to the Revenue authorities and merely direct Union Chairmen to bring cases of encroachment as they occur to the notice of the Tahsildar with a view to the imposition of penal assessment. This course is the quickest and surest, for the procedure laid down in the acts is cumbersome and slow and it is also the best as it avoids the unpopularity and opposition which interference with encroachments by influential persons entails, from the Panchayat to the Revenue authorities who are not so much affected thereby. To these views I still adhere as it is notorious that whenever a Union Chairman attempts to deal with encroachments he at once finds himself hampered by a powerful and general opposition outside the Panchayat not only in this matter but all matters and the opposition soon gains over representatives to oppose him similarly in the panchayat. In consequence, most of them leave encroachments alone.

FOR ORDERS.

In para. 6 of G.O. No. 18122 dated 2nd October 1895 Presidents of District Boards were requested to submit lists of roads and streets which they desire to continue to maintain and which should therefore continue to vest in them under Section 49 of the Local Boards Act. With the first of the two letters read above the President, District Board, Godavari forwarded a list of roads and streets which should continue to vest in the Local Boards. As this list did not include any roads and streets within the limits of unions, the President was requested to explain the omission. In reply to this the President states in the second letter (cur. No. 20152) that for the reasons therein assigned it is preferable, if at all, to vest in the Panchayats only the roads and streets maintained by them, leaving the encroachments on others to be dealt with by the Revenue authorities.

V.R. 4/9/96 The Presd's reasons are fully stated in his second letter. His argument is that if Panchayats interfere in encroachment cases, they immediately arouse opposition, & have in consequence great difficulty in carrying out their ordinary duties. If however the duty of removing encroachments in Unions is left to the Revenue authorities, no harm is done by the fact that considerable local opposition is stirred up. There is considerable force in this argument, especially as Govt. has laid down in G.O. 803 L of 2-5-96 that there is no reason why expenditure, in special cases, should not be incurred by Local Bds on roads not vested in them.

The President's alternative suggestion that only in Union, which are road ordinarily maintained from Union funds, should vest in local Bds. may be approved, as when the above G.O. was issued it was not contemplated that Bds. should ordinarily as a rule spend money on roads not vested in them, but only in special cases. If all roads in Unions were excluded from the operation of Act II of 1884, nearly every year some money would be so spent, it is submitted that this is not advisable. There however seems to be no objection to the alternative proposal, which may be approved & the list submitted by the Presd^l published & approved with the addition of "Roads in Unions maintained from Union funds."

The main road maintained from St. or K. funds are already provided for.

From V. A. BRODIE, Esq., President, District Board, Gódvári, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated 15th July 1896, Dis. No. 1126-D.B.

In reply to your memorandum, No. 792, dated the 7th instant, I have the honour to state that "roads and streets within the limits of unions" have not been included in the list submitted by me purposely. In the list as originally prepared they were included, but I struck them out recording an office-note to the following effect as my reason:—

It is therefore inadvisable at present in the interest of the panchayats themselves and of road protection both to entrust them with the latter. Much the best course is to leave the duty of protecting the roads and streets against encroachment to the revenue authorities and merely direct union chairmen to bring cases of encroachment as they occur to the notice of the Tahsildar with a view
