piece works in the Serijan Project were taxed as contractors but as the same approached completion they went away to their native places.

These and other similar circumstances naturally tended to bring about a perceptible decrease in the number of persons taxable for the succeeding year i.e., 1894-95, with a corresponding reduction in the total amount of the tax.

of prices, had either closed their business or left for their native homes.

The taxes imposed upon these had therefore to be remitted in whole or in part according to the merits of each case, in the majority of instances, while in a few others they had to be reduced. Apart from this, some of the Vakeels of the old school who had been practising as 1st or 2nd Grade Pleaders as the case may be, retired from the field altogether, on account of advanced age or ceased to renew their certificates for want of practice. Some instances of double assessment were discovered in 1893-94 in the case of persons owning houses in one ward and godowns or places of business in a different ward.

Several persons who had come from different districts and taken a piece
