G.O., dated 18th September 1890, No. 737, Revenue.

ABSTRACT.—Report on the operations of Special Funds under the control of the Board of Revenue for 1889-90, reviewed.

Office note from the Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, dated Fort St. George, 8th November 1890, No. 53.

Order—dated 4th December 1890, No. 912, Financial.

It is observed that the legislative basis of the Canal and Ferry Fund ceased to exist on the day on which Madras Act II of 1890 came into force.

2. There is a surplus standing to credit of collections under Acts I of 1870 and IV of 1878 amounting in round numbers to two lakhs of rupees. This must be regarded as hypothecated to the purposes stated in the second clause of section 29 of the earlier, as amended by the later, of the two Acts last mentioned, and if eventually placed at the disposal of District Boards will not be available for expenditure on general local purposes.

3. The Government resolves to direct that collections under the new Act (II of 1890) shall be kept separate from collections at credit realised under Acts I and IV of 1870 and 1878, and that from the date on which the new Act comes into force the former shall be credited to a new head to be temporarily opened in the Accountant-General's books.

4. Orders will issue in the Local and Municipal Department calling on the District Boards concerned to submit proposals in regard to the transfer of the management of ferries within their own districts and of their proper share of the surplus at credit.
