READ—the following paper:—

From J. P. HEWETT, Esq., C.I.E., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department (Medical), to the Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras, dated Simla, 12th July 1898, No. 922.

I am directed to state for the information of the Governor in Council that the Government of India have decided that the following procedure should be adopted in future in obtaining the services of Military officers for plague duty:—

I. A Local Government or Administration requiring an officer or officers for plague duty will apply to the Government of India, in the Home Department, detailing the number of officers required, and where and when they should be ordered to join.

II. The Government of India will then address the Adjutant-General in India, who will issue instructions under the orders of the Commander-in-Chief to one or more Commands to supply the officers wanted, the Government of India being at the same time informed of the instructions issued.

III. On learning from the Adjutant-General's Department from what Command the officers asked for will be supplied, the Government of India will inform the Local Government or Administration concerned, and all further correspondence in reference to the individual officers detailed by Commands, or their replacement, should they for any reason revert to Military duty, will be conducted between the Local Government or Administration and the Lieutenant-General Commanding.

IV. When the officers selected have joined their appointments, the Lieutenant-General Commanding will communicate their names to the Adjutant-General's Department, and their services will then be placed at the disposal of the Government of India.

V. When an officer's services are no longer required, he should be directed by the Local Government or Administration to rejoin his regiment, the Lieutenant-General Commanding and the Government of India being at the same time informed, and the latter will then replace the officer at the Commander-in-Chief's disposal.
