Proceedings of the Madras Government.

Read again G. O. No: 781, Pressed 13th September 1897.

Read again the following letter to the Secretary to the Govt of India, Finance and Commerce Dep^t, No. 5388, dated the 20th October 1897:—

In forwarding copy of the Proceedings of this Government No: 781, dated the 13th September 1897, I am directed to enquire whether the ruling therein, that acting menial servants holding no substantive appointments are entitled to Compensation for dearness of provisions under Article 72 of the Civil Account Code meets with the approval of the Government of India.

2. The Examiner of Public Works Accounts has recently brought to the notice of this Government a circular of the Public Works Department of the Government of India, (copy enclosed), declaring that substitutes of permanent whole time menial servants absent on leave are not entitled to the Compensation. This circular appears to have issued without reference to the Finance and Commerce Department of the Government of India, and neither the Local Government nor the Accountant-General were aware of it when the order of 13th September was passed. In discussing the pay of such temporary substitutes it must be remembered that the pay they received is that of the permanent staff and that no account is taken of the prevailing dearness of provisions when they are entertained. This Government is of opinion therefore that temporary and acting men suffer even more from the pressure of high prices than the permanent employees and stand in need of the concession quite as much as the latter, and that good & faithful service cannot be expected from temporary establishments especially, which have no collateral advantages on pension &c to look to but only their pay; the value of the latter, it must be remembered, is reduced in times of famine by from 30 to 50 per cent. His Excellency the Governor
