LOCAL AND MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

READ—the following paper:—

Office-note from the Plague Commissioner, to the Secretary to Government, Local and Municipal Department, No. 2, dated 30th September 1898.

The Sanitary Commissioner and the President, Municipality, Madras, have brought to the notice of the Plague Commissioner the advisability of a further railway check on passengers coming into Madras from Arkónam, who re-book at Arkónam and reach Madras by the South Indian Railway station via Chingleput. The Plague Commissioner referred the matter to the Medical officer at Arkónam. He states that several passengers coming from infected areas re-book to Conjeeveram, Chingleput and stations further south. He says it is not possible for him to know whether they re-book with the object of avoiding inspection on reaching Madras or not, that it is quite possible that some passengers who re-book reach Madras. All passengers who re-book from infected areas at Arkónam are given passports, but they are not watched. In addition to the issuing of passports to all passengers who re-book at Arkónam, it is advisable that their fresh tickets should be punched with the plague inspection mark. A hospital assistant or other officer must be detached for this purpose. The Plague Commissioner therefore recommends that an inspection be in future made of the trains coming from Arkónam to Chingleput. This inspection can best be made at Chingleput. Any passengers who have plague-marked tickets will, on alighting at Chingleput, be watched in view to see whether they re-book or not to Madras, and in cases they do re-book, their names and addresses at Madras will be taken and passports issued to them accordingly, the local authority in Madras being advised. Sanction is therefore requested for posting a hospital assistant with necessary staff at Chingleput for the purpose of checking passengers who come to Madras from Arkónam by that route and an additional clerk will also be necessary at Arkónam to watch who re-book there and secure that their tickets are punched before the train starts.
