Office Note. No 118.

Guntakal, 4th October 1898.

In the evening I inspected the camp near Timmencherla. There is, first, the camp with 23 tents pitched, some Railway people are living here & a Sanitary Inspector. The tents, many of them require looking into as the ridge polls in some cases have been broken. They should be, if possible, repaired & the tent carefully kept in order. I went on to Timmencherla village. Disinfection is in progress there with coolies. Care should be taken that the floors are thoroughly drenched with disinfecting fluid before the earth is removed and the existing practice under which the earth is carried outside the village & burnt there should be stopped at once. The earth should be burnt in the village street near the house. It is very dangerous to carry the unburnt earth about the streets. It is particularly requested that this matter may be looked into. As regards the houses in which the roof has been removed & holes have been made in the walls & the floor has been dug out, in the cases of those houses which belong to the very poorest classes some compensation may be given for damage done. But in all other cases the owner should be left to bear the small expense of replacing the floor and repairing the holes in the walls. The roofs in all cases should be repaired before the houses are handed over. The

for the village of Timmencherla full of houses & the houses are in a very bad state of repair. The roofs are all broken & the floors are all dug out. The houses are all in a very bad state of repair. The roofs are all broken & the floors are all dug out. The houses are all in a very bad state of repair. The roofs are all broken & the floors are all dug out.

work of disinfection in this village should receive the special attention of Deputy Collector Mr. Marshall. I went on to the health camp. This place is about a mile and half from the village & contains 30 sheds & 40 tents with about 150 people in the camp. There have been no cases of fever or plague here. It will be well to select a spot just outside this camp and put up there one or two tents for any suspicious cases that may arise, as observation sheds. As soon as the disinfection of the houses in the village is completed the question of letting the inhabitants to go to their houses will come up. No house should be allowed to be reoccupied unless 21 days have elapsed since inhabitants left it.
