Order

Submitted to Government, Marine Department. It appears very doubtful whether Regulation 17-A (page 51 of the Madras Plague Regulations & Rules) was meant to supersede G.O.No.367 Marine, dated 11-5-98 so far as the latter forbids
the landing of the crew. This, however, might be permitted subject to disinfection.
There is far less danger of infection from persons from a ship, than from passengers who alight from a railway carriage.

Read the following:-

Endorsement & from the Plague Commissioner,

Ref. on J.No. 658, dated 26th October 1898.

Order thereon No. 920 Mar 23.11.98.

In G.O.No. 357 Marine dated 11th May 1898, extended to all ports & outports by G.O.No. 382 Marine dated 12th May 1898, it is prescribed that, in the case of "healthy" vessels from an infected port, ships' crews shall "not leave the ship". Agents of the Bombay Steam Navigation Company now request that this regulation be so far relaxed as to admit of the landing at Mangalore of certain officers & crew of their vessels, the same precautions as are taken in the case of passengers, viz, after disinfection, which is accordingly sanctioned. The officers & crew are to be brought ashore as to admit of the landing at Mangalore of certain officers & crew of their vessels under the same precautions as are taken in the case of passengers, viz, after disinfection.

3. The Plague Commissioner sees no objection to the proposed relaxation which is accordingly sanctioned. The officers & crew referred to will be allowed to land under the precautions prescribed for passengers, and provided they do not, are not brought ashore, or if they do not, are brought ashore under supervision as passengers are.

READ—the following paper:—

From the Plague Commissioner, dated 27th October 1898, C. No. 1366.

ORDER—No. 920, Marine, dated 3rd November 1898.

In G.O., No. 367, Marine, dated 11th May 1898, extended to all outports by G.O., No. 382, Marine, dated 13th May 1898, it is prescribed that, in the case of "healthy" vessels from an infected port, ships' crews shall "not leave the ship."

2. The Agents of the Bombay Steam Navigation Company now request that this regulation be so far relaxed as to admit of the landing at Mangalore of certain officers and crew of their vessels under the same precautions as are taken in the case of passengers, viz., after disinfection.

3. The Plague Commissioner sees no objection to the proposed relaxation, which is accordingly sanctioned. The officers and crew referred to will be allowed to land under the precautions prescribed for passengers, and provided they embark again; or, if they do not, are brought under supervision in the same way as passengers are.
