From the Local and Municipal Department, dated 4th March 1899.

From the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department, dated 28th February 1899, No. 929-A.

With reference to the correspondence ending with your telegram No. 82, dated the 17th February 1899, I am directed to convey sanction to an additional allotment of one and a half lakhs of rupees on account of loans under the Local Authorities (Emergency) Loans Act (XII of 1897) to certain Municipalities in the Madras Presidency to enable them to meet expenditure on plague during 1898-99.

2. I am to say that, as already stated in the telegram from this department of the 16th February, the loans should be repaid in five years, and the interest should ordinarily be 4 per cent. a year. I am to add that in asking for sanction to each separate loan, which is required under the Act, the financial position of each municipality should be clearly stated, and in the case of the larger municipalities, the facilities for borrowing in the open market should be discussed.

Order—No. 355, Financial, dated 10th March 1899.

The letter from the Government of India read above will be communicated to the Local and Municipal Department.

2. With reference to paragraph 2 of that letter, the Government of India will be requested by telegraph to state whether an application is now necessary for its formal sanction to each separate loan.

An examination of the estimates for 1899-1900 shows that further loans to the extent mentioned below will be required from Imperial funds in the ensuing year by the following District Boards and Municipal Councils to enable these bodies to meet the plague expenditure debitable to them in that year:—
