READ—the following paper:—

From R. NATHAN, Esq., Under Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department (Medical), to the Secretary to the Government of Madras, Local and Municipal Department, dated Simla, 6th September 1899, No. 1512.

I am directed to state that the question has been raised whether a Military Hospital Assistant deputed to plague duty may be granted house allowance.

2. The Government of India are pleased to decide that a Military Hospital Assistant may continue to receive the house allowance which he drew when he was deputed to plague duty, or, if he occupied free quarters, the allowance for which he would otherwise have been eligible, provided that he is not furnished with free quarters whilst on plague duty.
