Despatch from the Right Honourable Lord CROSS, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor in Council, Fort St. George, dated India Office, London, 9th June 1892, No. 5, Public.

With reference to your Political Letter, No. 2, dated the 8th of March, I forward, for the information of your Excellency in Council, copy of a despatch from Her Majesty's Ambassador at Constantinople relating to the fate of Saiyid Fazl.

ENCLOSURE.

From F. G. FORD, Esq., Her Majesty's Ambassador at Constantinople, to the Right Honourable the MARQUIS OF SALISBURY, dated 9th May 1892, No. 156, Secret.

In reply to the inquiries contained in your Lordship's despatch, No. 83, of the 12th ultimo, respecting the fate of Shaikh Saiyid Fazl, the Moplah outlaw, I have the honour to report that, according to trustworthy information which I have received from a secret source, the Mollah in question is still alive and resides in a house given him by the Sultan, where his meals are supplied him from the Imperial kitchen.

He was raised a few years ago to the rank of Vizier, and is now styled Saiyid Fazl Pasha. He also receives a salary of £180 per month.

He has now no official position but he is utilized merely as a means of supplying information in high quarters respecting the Arabs of Arabia, with whom he is said to be in correspondence.

ORDER—dated 9th July 1892, No. 426, Political.

Communicated to the Collector of Malabar, with reference to his letter dated 1st February 1892.
