Cattle fairs and festivals at Kuvagam and Parikkal.

Ordering the publication, in the Fort St. George and certain District Gazettes, of notifications prohibiting the holding of the cattle fairs at Kuvagam and Parikkal in the South Arcot district and the attendance at those places, on the occasion of the ensuing Kuthandar and Sri Narasimhaswami Utsavam festivals, of persons from plague-infected parts.

GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

LOCAL AND MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

READ—the following paper :—

From M.R.Ry. R. SUNDARESA MUDALIAR Avargal, B.A., Deputy Collector, General Duty, South Arcot, Tirukkóyilúr Division, to the Collector of South Arcot, dated Camp, Tirukkóyilúr, 9th March 1899, No. 92-P.

With reference to your foot-note No. 31-P.D., dated 26th February 1899, to the Plague Commissioner's letter No. 462, dated 22nd February 1899, I have the honour to bring to your notice that in the taluk of Tirukkóyilúr, there are two festivals of local importance, the one known as Kuthandar festival held at Kuvagam and the other as Sri Narasimhaswami festival held at Parikkal, which take place, the former in the month of April and the latter in May. Cattle fairs are also held in connection with these festivals and the attendance will be pretty large. The railway stations of Mambalapet, Villupuram and Panruti are less than 16 miles from both the villages and people from the Salem and North Arcot districts, portions of which are infected, is very desirable to adopt precautionary measures to prevent infection being brought into the district from the plague-infected areas. I therefore propose—

(i) that the cattle fairs be stopped this year during the festivals at the two places.

(ii) that the sale of railway tickets to pilgrims or persons intending to attend the said festivals be prohibited within the infected areas of the Presidency as also in the State of Mysore.

(iii) that persons from the plague-infected areas intending to attend the festivals should not be permitted to visit these two places between the dates* noted in the margin.
